G. O. P. MAKES CLEAN SWEEP IN MAINE ELECTION

Nominee for Governorship Has Lead of 36,000 With Few Precincts Missing—Senator Re-elected by 50,000.

PLURALITY LESS THAN FOUR YEARS AGO

State Chairman Says Result Presages "Splendid Victory for Coolidge"— Democrats Made K. K. K.
the Issue.

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9.—
Ralph O. Brewster, of Portland, Republican, a member of the State Senate, was elected Governor of Maine yesterday by a plurality of 36,000 over William R. Pattangall of Augusta, Democrat.

With returns from all but a score or so of small towns and plantations the totals stand: Brewster, 142,926; Pattangall, 107,908.
The missing precincts will give no small a vote to affect the result materially.

With the same precincts missing, United States Senator Bert M. Fernald, Republican, received a vote of 147,323 to 97,059 for Fulton J. Redman, Democrat. The four Republican Congressmen were re-elected by safe margins.

Fernald's Plurality 47,051.
Pattangall, a former State Atorney-General, conducted his campaign against Brewster principally on the issue of the Ku Klux Klan.
In the primaries Brewster was indorsed by the Klan for the Republican nomination, although he asserted that he was not a member.
Brewster spoke chiefly on State issues during his campaign, making no mention of the Klan. Republican speakers of national prominence who came into the State in support of Brewster and Fernald and the four Republican Congressmen emphasized national issues and joined the Republican State Committee in insisting that a vote for Brewster meant indorsement of President Coolidge.

Pattangall was the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1923 and was defeated by a plurality of 28,457.
The Congressional vote was as follows:
First District, with 29 out of 82 precincts missing: Carroll N.
Reedy, Republican, 16,338; William
M. Ingraham, Democrat, 11,728.
Second District, with 24 out of 144 precincts missing: Wallace H.
White Jr., Republican, 27,477; Bertrand G. McIntyre, Democrat, 17, 646.
Third District, with 61 out of 222 precincts missing: John E. Nelson, Republican, 21,721; Leon O. Teb-betta, Democrat, 20,589.
Fourth District, with 29 out of 173 precincts missing: Ira G. Hervey, Republican, 27,155; Clinton
C. Stevens, Democrat, 16,354.
K. K. K. Issue Raised.
Pattangall made the Ku Klux Klan the leading issue of his campaign. Because Brewster had the Ku Klux indorsement in his primary campaign, the Democrats asserted that Brewster represented the Klan. Brewster, who had previously denied that he had sought Ku Klux support, made no reference to the Klan in his election campaign and his speeches dealt chiefly with State issues. But Republican speakers sent into the State by the National Committee declared that indorsement of the Coolidge administration was involved in the election.
Two years ago the Republican plurality for Governor was 28, 457 and four years ago it was 65, 166.
During the campaign Charles G.
Dawes, Republican nominee for the presidency, delivered an address in Maine in which he spoke regarding the Ku Klux Klan, declaring that he was opposed to its methods.
In the congressional contest in the first district, Ingraham injected the prohibition issue by declaring for radical modification of the national act.
In his home ward in Augusta Pattangall received only 278 votes.

DEMOCRATS OPEN FIGHT FOR THE PIPE VOTE BY FLAUNTING CORN COBS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—
The Democratic National Committee began yesterday energetic steps to capture the pipe vote. In the face of the inverted and complicated pipe smoked by Charles G.
Dawes, the Republican vice-presidential candidate, the Democrats are flaunting the old corn cob.

Distribution of the corn cobs has started. They bear the pictures of Davis and Bryan, with word "Victory" in red, stretching from the "V" in Davis to "Y" in Bryan. The corn cob was officially adopted by Gov. Bryan Sept. 3. Several hundred thousand will be distributed.

DEMOCRATIC HOPE OF COMFORT FROM MAINE BLASTED

Party Confidently Expected to Win Governorship or to Cut G. O. P. Majority Materially.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—"As goes Maine so goes the nation," is an old battle cry of the Republican party and the Democrats have been loath to use it except when the election appeared to be turning their way.

It is no secret that the Democrats confidently expected either to win the governorship in Maine or to cut down materially the Republican majority. They have lost the election and the question of how much they have cut down the Republican majority depends altogether on whether 1920 or 1922 is taken as a basis of reckoning.

In the 1920 election the governorship as well as the presidency was won by the Republicans in September and November, respectively, by approximately 65,000 majority. To that extent the idea that 1920 may be taken as a basis of computation for the 1924 election and that Davis will be beaten as was Cox is subject to sharp dispute by the mathematicians of the case.

Compared with 1922, which seems a fairer basis for calculation, the Republicans have made a small gain. They won then by 24,600 and it was remarked at that time that the cut from 1920 represented considerable loss to the Republican party. The Maine results were considered significant and they were indeed borne out by the congressional elections, for applying the same ratio of loss to the Republicans in other states, the mathematicians figured out about the loss of seats in Congress which they did suffer. So Maine pointed in 1922 the way the nation went.

What then does a gain from 24-600 in 1922 to 25,000 in 1924 really represent? It means that the Republicans not only have held their own, but have made a gain of about 1,000 votes, though the difference between a governorship and a presidential vote is always a few thousand anyway, so to all intents and purposes the situation has materially changed from 1920 to 1922. Had there been any landslide in prospect for the presidential race, the barometer in Maine should have registered at least a 50,000 or 60,000 majority.

SLAYERS DECLARE

Leopold Ready to Make a Wager With Reporters on Sentence Judge Caverly
Is to Impose Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Last-minute preparations for the final scene in the legal drama incident upon the sentencing of life imprisonment or to death of Richard Loeb and Nathaniel F. Leopold Jr., for the kidnaping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks, were under way today.

When court opens at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, Judge John R.
Caverly will announce the verdict he reached after 10 days of consideration of the evidence brought out in the hearing of the youthful millionsaires' sons and college graduates who confessed to the crime.

Loeb's Parents Absent.
Far away from the drone of the courtroom, to which only attorneys, defendants and their relatives, bulliffs and newspaper men will be admitted, will be the father and mother of one of the defendants.
Mrs. Albert H. Loeb, on her summer estate near Charlevoix, Mich., will sit awaiting a telephone message which will tell them whether their son has been sentenced to hang or committed to life to the walls of Joliet Penitentiary. They will be absent because their physician has warned them that to be present might prove too great a shock for them to bear.

Allen Loeb, a brother of Richard,
will be in court.
Nathan F. Leopold Sr. and Foreman Leopold, a brother of Nathan Jr., will be in court to represent the other defendant. They will be attended by Clarence Darrow and Benjamin and Walter Bachrach, defense attorneys.

Members of the prosecutor's staff, who have been handling the case with State's Attorney Robert S. Crowe, have been at work laying plans for combating any move the defense may attempt tomorrow.
Mother's Message to Loeb.
'Tell Dickie, my boy, that we are praying for him and hoping beyond hope that his life will be spared,' was the message Mrs.
Loeb gave Allen Loeb last night to give to "Dickie."

Fifty policemen and scores of plain clothes men will be on duty outside and in the corridors of the Criminal Court Building to insure an orderly convening of the trial.
Though the courtroom will be closed to spectators, it is expected that there will be much difficulty in keeping the crowds back from the building.

To Safeguard Judge Caverly.
Because of the many threats received by Judge Caverly in connection with the case, special precautions for safeguarding him will be taken.

and two sets of twins. The children occupied five double seats in the train to Regina, Can.

HOTEL CHEF WANTS TO MIX GOOD DISHES ABOARD ZR-3

Berlin Cooking Expert Among Hundreds Who Ask for Ride in Dirigible.

By the Associated Press.
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany,
Sept. 9.—Hundreds of telegrams and letters, which could be measured by the bushel, are pouring in upon the American commission and the Zeppelin officials from persons in various parts of Europe who are desirous of having a joy ride in the dirigible arship ZR-3, which has been constructed here for the United States Navy, when it cruises across the Atlantic Ocean to Lakehurst, N. J.

Many of these requests are coming from American tourists in Switzerland and other countries.
One telegram was sent by the chief chef of the Hotel Adlon in Berlin, who is eager to work his way across the Atlantic. He promised, if permitted to embark on the ZR-3, that he would provide delectable dishes for every meal during the voyage.

The flight, which had been planned for today for the ZR-3, was postponed because of high winds.
It had been the intention of the contractors to try out the motors for maximum speed and altitude and put the airship through various other tests.

COUPLE WALK TO MEXICO CITY FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

Mexican and American Wife Collect Good-Bye to Southern Republic on Way.
Special to the Post-Dispatch and the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—Valentin Ovando, a Mexican, and his American wife have arrived here after having walked the entire way from Washington, D. C., since March 15. On their way they gathered thousands of messages of good will towards the people of Mexico from American officials and leading citizens of the town through which they passed. These tributes are inscribed in a large book which they delivered to President Obregon. The cover of the volume was embroidered in silk by Mrs. Ovando with American and Mexican flags crossed.

The pedestrians say that the real object of their journey was to show the American people that peace between Mexico and the United States couple to walk unarmed through the whole republic was genuine.

MARINES LANDED; SHANGHAI HEARS ROAR OF BATTLE

United States, Great Britain, Japan and Italy Contribute Men to Guard Foreign Settlement.

INDECISIVE FIGHT
FOR TOWN OF LIUHO

Troops From Province of Hohai Reported in Action on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—The firing which started the western district of Shanghai last night, was caused by Chekiang troops stationed at Nansung on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway west of here, who were engaged in repulsing a night attack by the Kiangsu army along the railway. In this, according to the Chekiang headquarters at Lungwha, they were successful.

Desperate fighting also occurred through the night and this morning in the Liuhoh sector, but reports that Liuhoh had been captured by the Kiangsu forces are not confirmed, and the Lungwha headquarters deny the truth of them. Marines from the 22 foreign warships were landed this morning and quartered in various sections on the boundaries of the French and international settlements. The volunteer corps, which was mobilized at 4 o'clock this morning, has been divided into three shifts and is held in readiness for emergencies. Marines landed were as follows: Representing the United States, 250; representing Great Britain, 240; representing Japan, 400, and representing Italy, 150.

A proclamation was issued by the municipal council at 11 o'clock announcing that whereas a state of war exists in the neighborhood of the foreign settlement, notice is given that in view of the possibility of encroachments by either of the belligerents in the foreign settlement, the council proclaims a state of emergency and authorizes the adoption of requisite measures.

Battles Only a Preliminary.
While the preliminary battles in China's civil war continued today with renewed intensity in the vicinity of the prize city of Shanghai, Chong Tuo-Lin, war lord of Manchuria, and Wu Pei-Fu, military head of the Peking Government, entered their forces to meet in the main contest, a fight for control of the central Government of China.

Out of a series of reports from the defending forces of Shanghai in the past 24 hours, it was apparent that the fighting was being carried closer to the city by the invading forces.

Fighting was carried on today at three points on the 10-mile front west and south of Shanghai. While no decisive action took place, reinforcements were thrown into the fray by both sides.

There was an indication here that Gen. Ho Feng Lin, defense commander of Shanghai, might quit for a cash consideration of $2,000,000, but the report was not warranted by any of the aggressive steps being taken by Gen. Ho to drive back the invading forces from the western portion of Kiangsu Province in which Peking is located.

Troops From Hohai Take Part.
Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, chief of the military forces of the central government at Peking, and who also claims to have the support of a majority of the provinces, today commenced active participation in the fighting which has been in progress for almost a week between the governors of Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces for the possession of this port.

Nonanous troops, controlled by Wu, it is claimed by the Chekiang headquarters, took part in a heavy attack which the Kiangsu army launched last night against the Chekiang left wing on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway near Hwangtu. This attack, the Chekiang counsel for the Government, said he understood that the barges would be turned over to the fleet without charge. Two of the towboats are not in operating condition, the witness declared, because parts had been taken from them to use on the barges, and that rates must be adjusted for competition with the railroads by the slower-moving barges. "I hope," said the Judge, "that this matter hereafter will be thoroughly just and equitable."

Says Rates Must Be Fixed.
Judge Farris remarked that he realized the Secretary of War had the power to fix freight rates for the boats and barges, which cost the Government $2,000,000, through a contract, without rental requirement, obtained from Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, on the last day of the Wilson administration, in 1919. Since then he has failed to operate the boats, which were originally intended by the Government for operation on the upper Mississippi river.

Failure to operate the boats caused the Government, in March, 1923, to seize them, but they were restored to Goltra by an order of Judge Farris a week ago.

In a congressional hearing last March, Goltra said, "When we got the boats back they will be put in operation. I am getting steamers from the Shipping Board in order to feed our movement at New Orleans."

30 DEAD IN FORMOSA STORM

Injuries Total 312 and 3200 Houses Are Razed.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Sept. 9.—Very severe rain and wind storms in Formosa have caused 30 deaths, while 312 persons have been seriously injured.

Some 2200 houses were destroyed and 4600 damaged.

Leaders claim, was repulsed. The fighting was reported to be severe, a westerly wind carrying the sound of the firing to Shanghai and leading to the belief that the Chekiang force had been defeated and was retreating towards the city.

ROBBERS OBTAIN $200 AT ANGLUM BANK

Safe Again Locked as It Was at Time of Holdup in February, 1923.

Robbers who today held up the Bank of Anglum, on Bridgeton road, a half-mile north of Lambert St. Louis Flying Field, found the vault again locked, as it was in a holdup there in February, 1923, and got away with less than $200 from the cash drawer and $14 in pennies which one scooped from a tin box into his pockets.

Mrs. William W. Wainwright, a machine parked in front of her home, a half mile north of the bank, for some minutes after 9 a. m. Four or five men were in it, and she remarked to her husband, who is a director of the bank, that they "looked like bank robbers." They noted the license number of the machine, an old blue Buick touring car. The number was 235-171 or 235-174.

The machine in the previous robbery had parked there also.

Parked Alongside the Bank.
In 30 minutes or so the machine moved on down to the grocery store next door to the bank, where the robbers bought cigars. Proceeding on their leisurely course they turned the car off the road and parked it alongside the bank near the Wabash Railroad tracks.

A negro and one white man entered the bank. The negro carried a revolver. He forced Robert L. Weidman, a director, who was standing outside the cashier's window talking to the assistant cashier, J. R. Pitts, to go inside and made him and Pitts stand in a corner. "Where is the buzzer?" he asked, probably remembering that the alarm was given with it last year.

Pitts pushed the button in the floor, and the buzzer he was kept away from it.

While the negro covered Weidman and Pitts, the white man, who appeared to be about 22 years old, entered today in an election riot at Plaquemine Point voting precinct, in St. Landry Parish.

The dead are: Joe Conter, Tony Childes and John Childes. Getty Childes is reported dying. The riot started from an old election feud.

PHARES ELECTED G. O. P. CHAIRMAN; HYDE MEN RULE

Selection of Maryville Man Made by Acclamation After Leaders Switch From Williams.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9.—The Hyde faction of the Republican party in Missouri retained control of the Republican State Committee in the organization of the party committee here today, and put through the election of William F. Phares of Maryville as chairman without an open contest. The few members of the "old guard" present were little more than onlookers.

Supporters of former Circuit Judge George H. Williams of Webster Groves had been confident that he would be selected chairman, but a switch took place this morning, following activities late yesterday and last night of the administration forces.

Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for the Governorship, who, with other executive office nominees, had been reported favorable to Williams, swung over to Phares. As a result, Williams' name was not presented, and Phares was chosen by acclamation. The session was a repetition of other party councils of the present regime, with the Hyde faction in full sway and the "old guard" in the role of wailing observers.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. W. R. Haight, Brandville, vice chairman, and Miss Mary Kilholland of Moberly, secretary. Mrs. Kilholland has been executive clerk of the office of Dr. E. B. Clements, National Committeeman from Missouri, and retiring State chairman. Selection of a treasurer was left to the Executive Committee, which will be appointed later by the chairmen.

Phares was first mentioned for the chairmanship by Gov. J. Edgar, who also suggested C. U. Phily, appointed by Hyde as president of St. Joseph Police Board, and Dr. E. B. Clements, who is said to be close to Hyde, was placed in nomination for the chairmanship by Phily, who declined to be a candidate, following a conference last night in which Hyde and other participants, Dr. Brown, seconded the nomination and moved suspension of the rules to make possible the selection of Phares by acclamation. George H. Williams seconded that motion and all prospects of a contest passed.

Supporters of Williams declared after the meeting that Williams could have been elected had there been a fight in the committee, but they sought to evade any contest.

To Open Campaign Sept. 22.
Baker announced to the committee that he desired the formal opening of the Republican State campaign to take place Sept. 22, at St. Louis, where a contest was being held by the Executive Committee, but Baker's wishes probably will be followed.

The committee filled two vacancies in the Sixth District, where a contest occurred in the election of committeemen by the Sixth District Republican Congressional Committee. Those chosen were H. W. Insley of Rich's Hill and Miss Bernice Cinner of Lockwood.

MARX AND STRESEMANN TO RULE ON WAR GUILT RETRACTION

Master of Sending Proclamation to Powers to Come Up at Cabinet Meeting Next Week.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Sept. 9.—Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann will decide at a cabinet meeting next week whether the proclamation, retracting Germany's admission of war guilt, contained in the Treaty of Versailles, shall be sent to the world powers and, if so, when the step shall be taken.

The press continues an acrimonious discussion on the question of the advisability of sending the note.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET MEET

Coolidge Concentrating on Proposed Agricultural Commission.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—President Coolidge met with his Cabinet in regular mid-week session this morning, with several governmental problems up for consideration.

While awaiting reports on the reaction of his two speeches of last week, had of primary elections to be held this week Mr. Coolidge plans to devote his attention principally to the setting up of machinery to put into operation his proposed investigation of agricultural conditions and to the closing up of other official matters. The personnel of the proposed commission, it is understood, will be announced shortly.

White House officials were gratified over reports received yesterday from Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland, and Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, that the President's speech in Baltimore Saturday had made a favorable impression.

World Flyers Reach Washington

President Coolidge sat waiting in his motor car.

At Arlington, a troop of cavalry came up to be stationed about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier as a guard of honor and at Fort Meyer and down on the White House ellipse artillery men took the breech covers from the guns in readiness for the salute to the conquerors of the air road around the earth. As the weather cleared and the rain stopped, President Coolidge moved up and down the line of official cars at the field chatting with various Cabinet officers. He also inspected later a line of airplanes ranked at the field.

Before one machine the President paused to reach out and grasp the propeller. He turned at it a little and air service officers dashed forward to warn him of the danger that lurked in the idle driving mechanism. He nodded and passed to the machine, finally, finally, climbing up to inspect the cockpit.

President Coolidge decided to remain at the field, the Cabinet officers following his example. Lunch engagements were forgotten in the desire to pay honors to the flyers. Luncheon also meant nothing to the great crowd that had jammed every inch of available space around the landing field. Automobiles were bunched four to six deep all around the field.

King and Messenger Boys Congratulate Flyers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—At the Officers Club last night, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith exhibited two messages of congratulation, one from King George of England, and one from Gen. Patrick, and the other from 500 Western Union messengers from Boston.

The King's message followed: "Will you kindly convey to Lieut. Smith and the other flyers my hearty congratulations on their achievement of the first time in history of the circling of the world by man and machine. I have followed with interest and admiration the progress of this heroic undertaking. The messenger boys read: "Congratulations on your great achievement. We are proud of you." "We are proud of you," said Lieut. Smith's colleagues. "I was in on this flight, and it was a joy when I learned it was to be. None of us underestimated the difficulties, but each one meant to do his best. It was a great experience and a privilege to share the way and the triumph of the flight, to work it, to try to make it a success."

Lieut. Arnold: "We are glad to be so nearly done. We are proud to have been chosen to make this flight, and we hope that it will be the first of many, who, in years, will find they can travel as fast as we can. We are proud to have shared the way and the triumph of the flight, to work it, to try to make it a success."

CHAUFFEUR ROBBED OF $20

While Henry W. Meager, 4233 West Florissant Avenue, a chauffeur for the Union Blauco Co., Sixth and Carr streets, was preparing to make a delivery yesterday in front of 6287 Clayton Avenue, two men got on his machine and asked him for a ride down town.

"I'm not going that way," Meager replied. "Yes, you are," replied the robbers as they drew pistols. They made Meager drive through various streets for about an hour, finally forcing him to stop at Prather and Waldemar Avenues, where they took $20 from him and fled.

Warning Becker to make no outcry for 10 minutes, the robbers fled.

Primaries Badly Mixed.
The primaries appear to be a mixed-up affair. Some antikan Democrats have announced that they will go into the Republican primary and vote for the klan candidate, the theory that would be the case for the Democrats to defeat them in the election.

Nationally, the Republican ticket is commonly believed among Democratic political observers to have a slight edge at present, due to the prospect that La Follette will vote more heavily into the Democratic than the Republican vote.

A political writer who recently canvassed the States figured that the La Follette would draw from the La Follette in the ratio of three votes from the Democrats to two votes from the Republicans. The Republican losses to the third ticket will be principally among the farmers and the Democratic among industrial workers.

Davis has been encouraged to believe that he can turn the tide in his favor by coming out strongly in the reclamation, which is dear to the heart of this Western country, against the position taken by Charles G. Davis.

According to Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, who is traveling with Davis, the Davis proposal to regulate production by curtailing production, would, if carried into effect, be as disastrous to the West as any measure that could be conceived.

Noting by the public utterances of the two, the Davis plan of dealing with the excessive surplus of farm products is to build up a market for it; the La Follette plan is to do away with the surplus. Davis will hit hard at the La Follette plan.

DAVIS RUNS INTO K. K. K. FIGHT IN COLORADO

Hooded Order Lists Primary Candidates as 'Unsatisfactory Because of Catholic Affiliations.'

DAVIS THINKS HE CAN WIN STATE

Denver Political Observers, However, Believe That at Present Coolidge Has Slight Advantage.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN PARK, Colo., Sept. 9.—It is probably just as well for John W. Davis' peace of mind that he decided to rest here instead of in Denver, prior to the speech he will make in that city on the reclamation issue Thursday night.

For Davis, on his arrival in Denver from Omaha yesterday, was made aware that he had run right into the middle of a hot klan and anti-klan fight that affects both political parties.

One of the crowd that met the Davis train was a man who represented himself as a klanman, and who said he wanted to advise the candidate not to touch upon the klan issue while in Colorado. He failed to get an audience with Davis at the train.

The State-wide primaries of both parties are being held today. While the Ku Klux fight appears to center mainly in the Republican ranks, the klan has issued a circular on red paper, listing both the Democratic and the Republican candidates and marking with a cross those who are "unsatisfactory because of Roman Catholic affiliations." Those who are so labeled are declared to be "known enemies of American institutions," who should be rejected at the polls in favor of primary candidates in the circular as "Protestants."

K. K. K. Curse on Sweet.
One of those on whom the klan has put its curse is Gov. William R. Sweet, Democratic, who is running for another term, while Senator John W. Davis, Republican, is running for Governor. Davis is a klan member, and is O. K'd by the klan, said Robert T. Rockwell, whom H. is opposing.

Two United States Senators are to be elected. For the long term, Senator Lawrence C. Phillips, the incumbent, is the only candidate on the Republican side, while Senator Alva R. Adams, now holding office by appointment of the Governor, is the only candidate among the Democrats. Neither is marked as objectionable by the klan in its primary circular, but it is understood that in the election fight between the two the klan support will be thrown to Phillips.

There are three candidates for the Republican nomination for the national short term—Charles J. McNamara, who is being fought by the klan, Rice W. Means and Charles W. Waterman. The Democratic nomination for the short term is between Morrison Shafroth, a son of a former Colorado Governor, and Benjamin C. Hilliard. The klan's preferred candidates among the two are Waterman and Means.

Primaries Badly Mixed.
The primaries appear to be a mixed-up affair. Some antikan Democrats have announced that they will go into the Republican primary and vote for the klan candidate, the theory that would be the case for the Democrats to defeat them in the election.

Nationally, the Republican ticket is commonly believed among Democratic political observers to have a slight edge at present, due to the prospect that La Follette will vote more heavily into the Democratic than the Republican vote.

A political writer who recently canvassed the States figured that the La Follette would draw from the La Follette in the ratio of three votes from the Democrats to two votes from the Republicans. The Republican losses to the third ticket will be principally among the farmers and the Democratic among industrial workers.

Effort to Loot Theater Safe. A safe in the office of the Post-Dispatch Theater, 3451 Delmar boulevard, withstood efforts of cracksmen to batter open the inner doors to a private exit alley was forced early yesterday. It contained the Saturday and Sunday receipts. A side door leading from the theater to a private exit alley was forced by the burglars to get into the office.

WHEELER DEFENDS PLAN TO CURB POWER OF COURTS

Quotes Lincoln, and Refers to Coolidge as "Unhesitant Servant of Reaction"—Assails Mellon.

By the Associated Press. ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Audiences in three cities of Northern New York—Albany, Troy and Schenectady—heard Senator Wheeler, vice presidential candidate on the La Follette ticket, speak yesterday.

Of President Coolidge, the Senator spoke as "the man who ought but does not lead the Republican party." The new independent movement, he said, proposed to challenge the power of the Supreme Court to declare laws unconstitutional and to proceed "in the same but sure fashion to rebuild a system of government which so misuses courts."

He declared that the Supreme Court's power to annul congressional enactments on constitutional grounds had met with criticism from Abraham Lincoln and that its use in voiding Federal child labor legislation would lead to amendment of the Constitution.

He discussed the findings of Senate investigations during the last year and mentioned Secretary Mellon and the prohibition enforcement unit with the remark that Mellon "had been for 49 years in the busy business."

"Is it any wonder that Mr. Mellon opposed investigation of the prohibition enforcement branch of the Treasury Department?" he asked. "There is no doubt in my mind that investigation of the Treasury and War Department will show a condition of maladministration equalled only by that of the Department of Justice and the Interior Department."

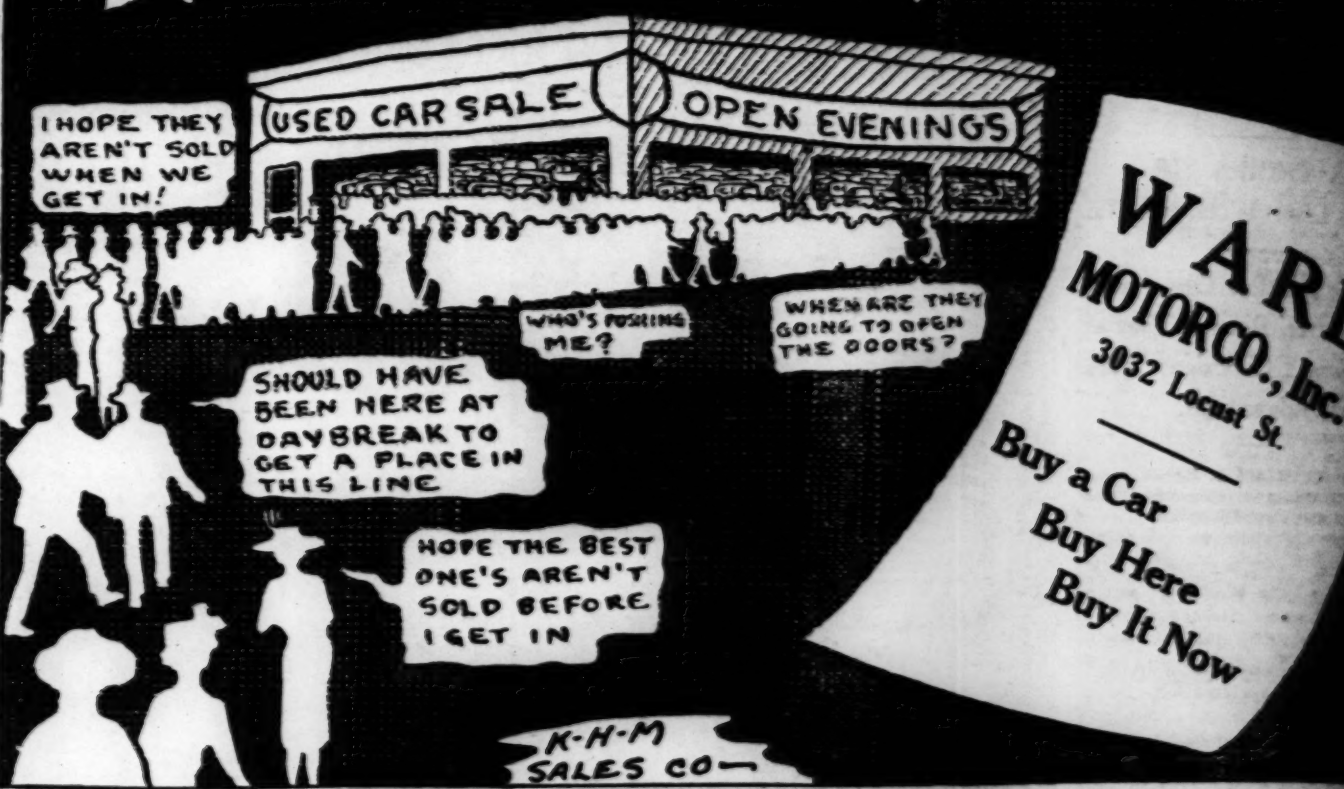

President Coolidge, in his Baltimore speech, said the question is whether America will allow herself to be degraded into communism, or a socialist state, or whether it will remain American. "We need not fear so much about communism or Bolshevism, but I pray God to guard us against the organized forces of corruption, the Falls, the Daughters, the Jess Smiths and the rest of the base politicians who are organized and working from within."

President Coolidge had criticized Senator La Follette's proposal to restrict court powers, he went on, which criticism was natural from the President, an obedient servant of staunch reaction that he is. He quoted Lincoln's first inaugural address as stating that "the people will have ceased to be their own rulers" if "vital questions of policy of government" should be "irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme Court." The power of the court to declare laws unconstitutional "was never intended to be given to the courts," he said, but "property had rallied around the tribunals" that had asserted such a power.

CORONER HOLDS YOUTH AS SLAYER OF ETHEL BAXTER

Homicide Charge Returned Against Edward Daughtry, 18, Who Had Admitted the Killing.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today, holding Edward Daughtry, 18 years old, for the killing of 14-year-old Ethel Baxter in a holdup on the Lemay Ferry road early Saturday morning.

A warrant charging first degree murder later was issued by Justice of the Peace Jacob Pfeiffer of 3228 South Broadway and the youth's preliminary hearing set for next Tuesday.

Daughtry, who appeared at the inquest calm and apparently untroubled, refused to take the witness stand, although yesterday he had signed a confession and announced his intention of pleading guilty.

Testimony was given by Constable William F. Knight of St. Louis County, who arrested the youth yesterday, and the four companions of the slain girl.

Shot Through Head. Ethel Baxter, who was shot through the head, died at the City Hospital Sunday without regaining consciousness. She, with a brother, Ralph, resided with their grandmother, Mrs. Florence E. Ross, at 1211 Chouteau avenue.

Constable Knight, the first inquest witness, identified the prisoner and related the circumstances of the investigation leading up to the arrest. When he was informed by the St. Louis police at 3 a. m. Saturday that the girl had been shot on the Lemay Ferry road, he testified, he immediately suspected Daughtry, whom he had met near the scene of the shooting an hour before the holdup. He remembered the youth had been drinking and that he answered the description given of the robber.

Later he told of visiting the Eight-mile house, in the 700 block on Lemay Ferry road, where Daughtry was employed as a busboy, and finding in the boy's room, a .32 caliber revolver and six cartridges, two of which had been discharged. A negro porter at the place then told him that Daughtry had gone to his room to get the revolver about 1 a. m. Saturday and had gone out a few minutes later.

Besides Ralph Baxter, 17, Ethel's companions on the night of the shooting were William Baxter, 22, a half brother, who resides at 2419 Geyer avenue; Elsie Patton, 17, of 1124 Chouteau avenue, and Albert Gienk, 24, of 1119 South Thirteenth street. They took the stand today and after identifying the youth as the slayer repeated the story of the holdup, which they previously had told to police and county officers, and which was confirmed in detail yesterday by Daughtry's confession made in newspaper reporters and later incorporated into a written statement.

Daughtry's Story. Daughtry, who confessed immediately following his arrest in the Lemay Ferry Bank at Luxemburg, said he had attended a theater in St. Louis Friday night and had stopped in Luxemburg on the way home for liquor. After taking several drinks, he related, he went to his room, at the Eight-mile house, but couldn't sleep and decided to go back to Luxemburg for more liquor, taking his revolver along for protection against holdup men. That was about 1:30 a. m. Saturday.

While walking along Lemay Ferry road, he hailed a passing Ford touring car and asked the occupants for a ride to a car line. They stopped for him and he rode on the running board, conversing with the party. At length, he said, he offered the others cigarettes and matches and then the idea came to stage a holdup.

Found Only 40 Cents. He ordered two of the male members of the party out and searched them. Upon finding only 40 cents, he said, another drunken idea to kiss the girls came to him. He had kissed Ethel and was scuffling with Elsie Patton, who resisted his advances, when one of the youths outside the car struck him a staggering blow. While still dazed, he said, he fired two shots in the direction of the car and fled, not knowing one of the bullets had struck Ethel in the head.

Ethel's companions on the stand today also repeated their previous version of the automobile ride in the county which ended in the killing. In Gienk's machine, they said, they had driven as far as Maxwell near the Meramec River, but had been delayed several hours on their return by tire punctures, burned out brake bands and collapse of the car's lighting system. They were proceeding slowly without lights, they said, when the holdup occurred.

The arrest of Daughtry, shortly before noon yesterday, resulted when the youth entered the Lemay Ferry Bank to withdraw $105 he had on deposit. Constable Knight had learned from Daughtry's employer, Alex Risch, proprietor of the Elm House, that the boy had had an account at the bank and assumed he would try to get his money before attempting to leave the city. A watch was kept and Daughtry taken into custody when he entered the institution.

BERLIN READY TO SEEK ADMISSION TO LEAGUE

Requires Assurance, However, of Permanent Seat for Germany in Council.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1934, by the Press and Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—Germany will apply for admission to the League of Nations if she is assured a permanent seat in the council.
This is the first concrete result of the negotiations which have been going on for several days between the official German observers here and the nations, particularly the British, who wish to bring Germany into the league as soon as possible.

The French are opposed to agreeing to give Germany a seat in the council in advance.

The Germans who are working for their country's entry are trying to induce France to give her tacit consent to this and to make some evidence showing a friendly spirit.

They suggest the evacuation of Dortmund now instead of next October, in order to make an impression on German opinion, which needs to be prepared before the Government can apply for entry in the league.

The French, backed by the little entente, places less importance on immediate entry by Germany than Prime Minister MacDonald does, but seemingly there is no question
but that application by Germany, if no strings were attached to it,
would be favorably received here.

The league has tackled the difficult problem of security, arbitration and disarmament. The program, according to the plan of the 18 states which have accepted the proposed mutual assistance pact, is to define security first of all, in other words, to determine necessary sanctions.

Under French leadership they will propose two varieties of economic sanction, first, passive, including the boycott, and second, active, lending money and aiding the attacked nation by keeping the seas open and so forth. If an accord can be reached on these points the plan is then to define arbitration.

The British are leading a smaller group of nations, the Scandinavians, Holland and Italy, which wish to avoid all obligations of assistance and which wish an agreement on arbitration alone.

These two views are far apart and it is obvious that MacDonald and Herriot, while creating a general atmosphere facilitating agreement, did not bring the two views any closer together on this vital point.

Victim of Shooting Had a Husband.
By the Associated Press.
NEWTON, Ga., Sept. 2.—Since the shooting, last Wednesday, by Ira Jones of a 17-year-old girl, known as Miss Maud Beasley, it has been learned that she is married and that her name is Mrs.
Marshall. Her husband, it is said, lives in Alabama. It is believed that it was because of this secret Marshall is in a hospital in Alabama that she refused to marry.

A Secret

And Sunny Shampoo
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I have glorious hair, as millions of women know. Its glint is like a halo, on the stage or on the street. I don't know how I got it. I only know that it comes to me through what they call a Fruity Shampoo. Very wonderful men perfected it for me, but they never would give me the formula. They say that one ingredient gives the matchless glint, but they never would tell what it is.

But they make it for me to supply to you, just as they make it for me. It is the greatest shampoo in existence. I say that after trying scores of them, and searching the world for the best.

BUTLER SAYS DAVIS IS THIRD IN RACE

Republican Chairman Declares Democratic Leaders "Have Sensed This Situation."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, yesterday issued a statement declaring "the one fact plain to all observers of this campaign is that John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, has been eliminated from the contest."

"Mr. Davis ranks third the country over almost without exception," the statement continued.

"The official leaders of the Democratic party, if I have read their newspaper organs and prophetic aright, have already sensed this situation. We have been advised in New York that Democratic strategy now calls for the abandonment of the Northwestern and Pacific coast states and the intensifying of the campaign in the East in the hope of creating a combination of the solid South and Eastern electoral votes. But even their most optimistic supporters do not attempt to claim New York or New Jersey."

"As to the activities of the Socialist third party, I am not disturbed."

"Although I have only been here a short while, I am advised by competent and impartial newspaper friends of mine that conditions in the West are most favorable. Not only is John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, failing to make headway, but Senator La Follette is losing support. Advice from all mid-western states set forth that President Coolidge is attracting the support of voters who at the beginning of the campaign were invited to aid the Senator. Reports from all the states declare that the President not only has the support of the Republicans, but that voters not affiliated with any party are turning to him."

"There is a growing appreciation among those who have admired La Follette that a vote for the Senator would be a vote thrown away or, put another way, a half a vote for Davis, who in no way arouses their interest. This is particularly true of the agricultural sections. Farmers not only have respect for the ability, integrity and honesty of President Coolidge, but they believe in the principles and the policies of the Republican party."

"They are appreciating more and more the disaster that inevitably would result if the presidential contest were thrown into Congress with the consequent business prostration of the country."

ST. LOUISANS FIGHT MAY RATES

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Witnesses for Kansas City may shippers will testify today before Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner David I. Copehafer, in the hearing on freight rates on hay, which St. Louis and Eastern Mississippi Valley shippers declare are discriminatory.

Witnesses for the St. Louis and affiliated interests yesterday testified that Kansas City dealers can ship hay because of the lower freight rates and that the rates are unfair to St. Louis and Eastern Mississippi Valley dealers. New Orleans, St. Joseph and Omaha interests are citing Kansas City dealers in the fight to maintain the present rates.

LOWDEN EXPLAINS FARM CO-OPERATION

Says Purpose Is to Make Law of Supply and Demand Serve Producer.

By the Associated Press
 TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 9.—The purpose of co-operative marketing of farm products is not to defy
 the law of supply and demand, but only to make that law serve the farmer, Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, said in an address on farm dairying at the Kansas State Fair today.
 Lowden said in part:
 "Co-operation, in its largest sense, is the economic watchword of modern economic life. The isolated farmer is helpless in this highly organized world. The Grange, the Farmers' Union, the Farm Bureau, and other farm organizations are all helpful agencies in the evolution of farming to a point where organized agriculture will take its rightful place in the highly organized society of which we are a part.
 "Those who oppose the principle of co-operative marketing seem to think that in some sort of way the co-operative associations are seeking to avoid the operation of the law of supply and demand.
 Quite the reverse is true. Those who advocate this form of marketing are seeking only to create conditions by which that law will operate fairly as between the seller and the buyer of farm products.
 At present it does not.
 "We have too long permitted the bugaboo of surplus to depress unduly the price of the great staple products of the farm. The world has been producing wheat for some thousands of years. Since the time of Pharaoh, however, there has never at any given time been a sufficient amount of wheat in existence to feed the world for more than a few months. Would we call mankind imprudent if enough wheat were always carried in storage to feed the world for a single year? If not, what shall we say of the system of marketing by which a six months' supply is permitted to lower the price of that necessity of life below the cost to produce.
 "Something is wrong with our methods of marketing when the aggregate money value of a large crop of a prime necessity is smaller than the value of a crop.
 "The agricultural problem is not a class problem. It involves the very existence of our institutions.
 No man can contemplate the future of America with assurance unless America is to remain fundamentally an agricultural nation."

ADMITS SHE KILLED MAN FOUR YEARS AGO
 Woman, Held on Information Given by Ninth Husband, Tells Police Where She Buried Body.

By the Associated Press.
 DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—Having confessed, according to the police, that she killed her sweetheart four years ago, after she had helped him hide the body of her eighth husband, whom he had slain, Mrs. Euphemia Mondich was being questioned by the authorities today.
 Information furnished by the woman's ninth husband three days ago led to her arrest. Mrs. Mondich told the authorities she did not know the name of the man she killed, except that he was known as "John." Rumors believed to be those of "John" were unearthed yesterday under a house formerly occupied by Mrs. Mondich.
 According to the police, Mrs. Mondich confessed she had killed "John" with his own revolver, a week after she had seen him club her eighth husband, Joseph Sokolsky, to death.
 "John" then came to live with her, she told the police. One day, she said, he threatened to kill her. "I made him put the revolver on the table," she informed the police. "I thought he would kill me, so I shot him."
 She then described how she went under the house, dug a hole and dragged "John's" body from the house and buried it.
 She married Steve Mondich, she said, shortly afterward. Mondich, according to the police, became incensed when she left him and took with her title to property they owned jointly.

CREDIT FRAUD LAW INVOKED HERE IN BANKRUPTCY CASE
 Shoe Merchant Accused of Making False Statement of Liabilities to Obtain Merchandise.
 William Hoffman, formerly a shoe dealer of 5975 Easton avenue, who last November filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and listed assets of $14,900 and liabilities of $17,495, was arrested today on a warrant charging the felonious making of a false statement of his liabilities to obtain merchandise on credit.
 Hoffman was released on $3000 bond. He made no statement.
 His arrest was brought about through a complaint to the Circuit Attorney by the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., based on an investigation by the department of commercial frauds of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men, and is said to be the first of several such contemplated prosecutions for fraudulent credit reports. The warrant was issued under a law passed in 1919.
 Hoffman is charged specifically with obtaining $3000 worth of shoes from the Hamilton-Brown Company in August, 1933, three months before he confessed bankruptcy. According to the credit form he filed out, as required by the seller, he showed assets of $18,481 and liabilities of $991.10 or a net worth of $17,490. But his books, which as a bankrupt, he was required to turn over to Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, show a discrepancy and, instead of a net worth, a positive loss, according to the in-

CREDIT FRAUD LAW INVOKED HERE IN BANKRUPTCY CASE

Shoe Merchant Accused of Making False Statement of Liabilities to Obtain Merchandise.

William Hoffman, formerly a shoe dealer of 5975 Easton avenue, who last November filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy and listed assets of $14,900 and liabilities of $17,495, was arrested today on a warrant charging the Missouri making of a false statement of his liabilities to obtain merchandise on credit.

Hoffman was released on $3000 bond. He made no statement. His arrest was brought about through a complaint to the Circuit Attorney by the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., based on an investigation by the department of commercial frauds of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men, and is said to be the first of several such contemplated prosecutions for fraudulent credit reports. The warrant was issued under a law passed in 1913.

Specific Charge.
Hoffman is charged specifically with obtaining $4000 worth of shoes from the Hamilton-Brown Company in August, 1933, three months before he confessed bankruptcy. According to the credit form he filled out, as required by the seller, he showed assets of $13,481 and liabilities of $911, or a net worth of $8770. But his books, which, as a bankrupt, he was required to turn over to Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, show a discrepancy and, instead of a net worth, a positive loss, according to the investigators. It is also charged that the financial statement was materially false in that Hoffman failed to list actual liabilities that existed in August, and which he scheduled in his bankruptcy proceedings, and that, instead of having assets of $14,900 when he went into bankruptcy, only $7000 was found by the trustee, as against liabilities of $18,715, most of which existed when the financial statement was made.

Moreover, the investigators have checked over the items in Hoffman's schedule of debts, and find a number of such items which he failed to list in his application for merchandise credit. These include a debt of $1000 to his sister-in-law and several items of $200 to $300 each to loan companies. At his hearing before the Referee, Hoffman testified that in the first instance, he "did not put it down at the time," as he "thought the loan had an indefinite time to run," and in the latter case he said he had expected to "pay off" in time.

Law Is Specific.
While no convictions under the law appear of record in St. Louis, it is nevertheless specific as to intent, declaring that "no person shall knowingly make or cause to be made . . . any false statement in writing, with intent that it shall be relied upon, respecting the financial condition, or means or ability to pay . . . for the purpose of procuring in any form whatsoever, either the delivery of personal credit, the payment of cash, the making of a loan or credit, the extension of credit, the discount of an account receivable, or the making, acceptance, discount, sale or indorsement of a bill of exchange, etc."

By the Associated Press.
MARICOPA, Ariz., Sept. 9.—George Ward, 46, fireman of Tucson, was killed late last night when the Sunset Limited, a crack Southern Pacific passenger train, was wrecked near here. No other casualties were reported despite the fact that the locomotive, the baggage and mail cars were plunged into a ditch and every coach derailed, according to meager reports. A heavy storm partly paralyzed wire service to the scene of the wreck.

USE CANTHROX Shampoo

Today's Beauty Aid

You can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with Canthrox. It makes a very simple, inexpensive, shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, wholesome feeling. After its use you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy; so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of Canthrox, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head—Advertisement.

ILLINOIS LABOR UNIONS ASKED TO FIGHT KU KLUX

Resolutions Offered in Federation Convention Call for Action in Southern Part of State.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 9.—Resolutions "demanding" that the Illinois State Federation of Labor "promote a series of antislavery mass meetings and demonstrations in the State of Illinois, especially in the southern part," were introduced in the federation convention here this morning by Henry Corbushley of the Zeigler miners' local and President Carl Dillbert of the Dowell miners.

Both resolutions were identical, in part, as follows:

"We see plainly that there are different kinds of illegal organizations throughout the world appearing under different kinds of masks and names, and.

"Whereas we see one of those organizations, the Ku Klux Klan, existing in this country and daily torturing the people, especially organized labor, as for instance at Herrin, Zeigler, Christopher and Dowell, and brutal murder right in the courthouse of West Frankfort, etc., therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we condemn the illegal Ku Klux Klan organization, also call on our brother delegates to the forty-second Annual Convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor to adopt this resolution and demand that the Illinois State Federation of Labor promote a series of antislavery mass meetings and demonstrations in the State of Illinois, especially in the southern part."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 9.—Receivership for the Oklahoma City Street Railway Co. is sought by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. of St. Louis, representing 65 bondholders, in a suit filed in Federal Court here yesterday.

The petition charges that 40 per cent of the city's street car lines are operated at a loss, and that the company showed a net loss in operation last year of $100,000.

HUSBAND TO DIVORCE ACTRESS

He Denies Jack Dempsey Will Be Named in Estelle Taylor Suit.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Kenneth M. Peacock of New York, husband of Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress, announced yesterday he had instructed his attorney to notify counsel for Miss Taylor to have her come to this city to accept service in a divorce suit.

He denied reports that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was to be named in the suit, which, he said, would be based on desertion. Miss Taylor is visiting in Wilmington, Del. Reports that she was engaged to marry Dempsey recently were denied by the champion. "I knew she came East with Dempsey," said Peacock, "and I knew they met in Wilmington recently and went to Atlantic City to see the beauty pageant. If she wants to marry Dempsey, it's all right with me." Peacock said he was married to the actress in 1911. They agreed several years ago to separate, and have since been living apart, he added.

Making every one of 2,300,000,000 exactly like every other

Two billion three hundred million drinks of Coca-Cola are sold a year through 415,000 retailers.

In the light of these facts read the following excerpt from a letter to an officer of The Coca-Cola Company:

"You'll be interested in this: A party of twelve of us were touring Kentucky on a mission for our Chamber of Commerce. We visited towns of all sizes, mostly small. We stopped at all kinds of soda fountains and refreshment stands. Again and again everybody ordered Coca-Cola. Though in unfamiliar places, we were certain of its quality."

There are good reasons for this confidence.

Under the United States Pure Food Laws only a beverage made of wholesome products can be offered you without a declaration of its ingredients. With Coca-Cola its name is its label.

Stationed at each of the 14 regional Coca-Cola manufacturing plants is a food expert who tests all ingredients and insures the uniformity, purity and wholesomeness of Coca-Cola syrup.

The Coca-Cola Company itself maintains a Service Section, composed of highly trained soda dispensers, who go behind the fountains of retail stores and teach the soda dispensers the most improved fountain method.

ods, and, most important of all, the fact that one ounce of Coca-Cola syrup to five ounces of cold carbonated water makes a perfect Coca-Cola. Also, as an aid to standardization of the drink, the company has adopted a special six-ounce thin glass, and last year sold more than 3,400,000 of them.

The 1,250 Coca-Cola bottling plants are subject to rigid inspections by experts retained by the organization to insure standardization and purity of the bottled drink. In these plants all bottles are washed and sterilized in a 5 per cent solution of caustic soda, at temperatures of from 130° to 180° Fahrenheit. They pass from these sterilizing machines to the filling and crowning machines without the touch of human hands.

Through a manufacturing system known as "laboratory control," approximately 18,000,000 gallons of Coca-Cola syrup is made each year with every drop exactly like every other. And every possible precaution is taken to make every one of the 2,300,000,000 drinks sold a year exactly like every other—which means that each one is "delicious and refreshing."

Isn't it a remarkable tribute to the industry back of Coca-Cola that this result is accomplished at 5c a bottle or glass?

Refresh yourself with one!

PRESIDENT RETAINS LEWIS
ON TARIFF COMMISSION

Reappointment of Democratic Beloved Indicative of Desire for Lower Sugar Duty.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—President Coolidge gave what was accepted as a hint of his action on the sugar tariff yesterday by naming David J. Lewis of Maryland, Democrat, whose term had expired.

It has been understood generally that Commissioner Lewis signed the majority report of the commission on sugar, which recommended reduction of the tariff duty. The signing of the minority report, opposing a decrease, was supposed to be Commissioner Warren, chairman, and Burgess, a Republican.

For some time it has been a duty in

THREE LEAGUE COM
APPOINTED TO W PROBLEM OF DISAQuestion to Be Discussed From Arbitration and Security Reservations to Plan for

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—The work of studying the various phases of the disarmament problem was taken up by the Disarmament Commission yesterday in accordance with the resolution passed Saturday by the League Assembly.

Under the presidency of Foreign Minister Duce of Rumania, the commission decided to proceed with discussion of the draft treaty of mutual assistance.

The appointment of three sub-commissions was decided upon, the first to study control of the traffic in arms of private manufacture, the second, the co-ordination of the work of the present commission with the league's temporary mixed commission on disarmament, and the third to deal with the limitation of naval armaments.

The commission will attack the main problem by inaugurating a general discussion from the triple standpoint of compulsory arbitration, security and disarmament. It appointed a special committee to draw up a presentation of the views for and against the proposed pact of mutual assistance held by all the countries in the league and also to give an outline of the new suggestions offered, including the American project for the outlawry of war and another project evolved by Sir James Allen of New Zealand.

Signor Schanzer of Italy, in opening the general debate, assailed the guarantee pact because he believed it would fail to achieve a reduction of armaments and because of its authorization against states not having agreed to it.

Criticizing the American Plan, the Italian delegate, criticizing the American plan, said the United States Supreme Court had such extraordinary powers that it was often said America was ruled by her judges.

"I much doubt," he added, "if our European situation would be amenable to such a preponderance being given the judges."

The American plan was formal as regards the tribunal, Signor Schanzer commented, but less strict as to enforcement of the tribunal's findings. Italy, he concluded, believed the problem of security could be solved on the basis of the proposed pact of guarantee, with suitable changes, and his delegation would be rather against the erection of new institutions which might disturb the operation of the pact.

Reservation on Arbitration. Schanzer said Italy accepted with reservations the idea that all disputes between states should be settled by obligatory arbitration. His statement caused a chill in the hopeful atmosphere which last week's memorable proceedings in the assembly had achieved. Many delegates compared it with Italy's attitude at the last assembly, when she questioned the right of the League Council to pass upon the court's affairs.

Signor Schanzer's whole argument was that disputes of a political nature should be left to the council and that only questions of jurisdiction should be submitted to the World Court of Justice, which in the past proposed by the Americans virtually decided which state was the aggressor.

Prof. Shotwell, one of the authors of the American plan, explained later that in the American project an aggressor nation was conceived on a much narrower plan than is supposed by those who fear it would involve the world court in international politics. He said that the question of aggression was envisioned in the American scheme was simply that of determining by the court the materiality of an overt act.

"We leave to the council of the League of Nations," he added, "all the accessories it now possesses for the members of the league. We also recognize the need of mediation."

more might be said. Lewis, in his report, anticipated the possibility of a majority by the commission. He had foreseen the possibility of a majority by the commission. He had foreseen the possibility of a majority by the commission.

FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Cost of a Subway.

THE Mayor is strong for a subway in St. Louis. So are we all in due time. But are we to follow an $80,000,000 bond issue for desirable improvements so closely by another of $50,000,000 for a subway?

Why not have a breathing spell between these construction projects and find out where we are at?

Mr. Dawes stated recently that the cost of running the governmental departments had been greatly reduced, which is in the right direction, and that the cost of city governments correspondingly increased, which is in the wrong direction. This disregard of economy is a menace that, if not curbed will work great harm.

Where does the Mayor get the idea that surface lines have been eliminated in downtown districts?

They operate in downtown New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. In Philadelphia and Boston they operate in subways as well as in the streets, and this would seem to be the ideal method rather than to make merely feeders of them for the subway, as he proposes with the incidental transfer this necessitates.

We are told that the bus lines in New York have recently shown a deficit. Will this not be the case in St. Louis? And if it shall we increase bus fares or curtail bus service as the present extension of bus service will curtail the street railway service because of reduced revenue?

We kick about a seven-cent street car fare and gladly pay a 10-cent bus fare and still more cheerfully pay a quarter for a service car as though the latter were dirt cheap; and the street car is by far the safer.

If either the street car or bus lines require increased fares to give the public proper service and prevent a deficit let's give it to them and ride cheerfully on our way and not work ourselves an injury by crippling them. Let's be good sports.

Prohibition Will Be an Issue.

THE Editor of the Post-Dispatch. I know the difference between State party candidates who will assemble next Tuesday to make their platforms should take note of the fact that a plank of their platforms containing a repudiation of Ku Kluxism is not the only keystone for party success in the coming election.

La Follette and Wheeler, the candidates of the Progressive party, have publicly denounced the Volstead act, and the eighteenth amendment as well as the Ku Klux Klan. Both issues are prime factors for party success, because both affect the inalienable rights of citizens, and both are equally dangerous to our liberties and our ideals of government.

There are enough wet votes (at least in Missouri) to elect La Follette and Wheeler, and perhaps also Mr. W. E. Brandt who runs for Governor of our State on the Socialist ticket. Who doubts that the people cannot elect their President, their Governor, or their right to choose their food or drink? Because some people abuse that right, should the parties insist on taking those rights away from all of us?

M. J. EDW. HARTMANN.

Secretary Anti-Prohibition League of Missouri.

Federal and State Protection.

IN the Post-Dispatch of Sept. 3 there is an editorial headed, "Federal Law and the Klan," in which you state that section 19 of the penal code was designed to protect citizens of the United States in their rights under the Federal Constitution and the laws, and that the right of appeal to the United States courts whenever citizens suffer from the lawless activities of any organization or group, now exists. May I ask why you do not take the same position in your editorials regarding the eighteenth amendment?

I am referring particularly to the editorial in the issue of Sunday, July 27. Are we to understand from yesterday's editorial that the Post-Dispatch has changed its opinion in regard to the protection to which citizens are entitled under the Constitution of the United States, or are we to believe that the Post-Dispatch feels very much as does Mr. Delos Duty (if the statement published in an issue of the Globe-Democrat is correct), namely, that they might as well have so many chocolate soldiers on the streets of Herrin as the military? It would seem that when it comes to the eighteenth amendment, the Post-Dispatch and Mr. Delos Duty have the State and Federal officers ignore duty and permit this lawlessness to go on un molested, and when the military is called upon to restore order out of the chaos caused by this neglect of duty on the part of State officers, they would have the military do what the State officers have been doing, namely, ignore duty and follow the dictates of the lawless element, regardless of the rights of law-abiding citizens.

In your editorial of yesterday you have taken the right stand in regard to the protection to which the law-abiding citizen is entitled, and it is to be regretted that you cannot take the same stand in connection with the rights of citizens who are suffering from the lawless activities of the group termed "bootleggers." Why not open your minds to the other angle on this question. You can't go wrong, because it is the right side, and right only can prevail. H. A. P.

MAINE KEEPS COOL.

Maine keeps cool with Coolidge.

There is no comfort for either Democrats or Progressives in the Maine election. The returns, almost complete, give Brewster, the Republican klan candidate for Governor, a majority of about 33,000, and Fernald, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator, about 47,000.

The klan issue evidently cost Brewster, against whom the antiklan fight was directed, about 17,000 votes. But the Republican plurality is so large that his reduced plurality exceeds the normal of past years. The klan was a liability: it reduced his vote, but the effect of the issue was not sufficient to defeat him. Nevertheless, his loss of 17,000 votes is a warning to parties and candidates in other states. It proves that the klan liability is dangerous.

The result in Maine cannot be charged to apathy. The vote was the largest in the history of the State. Taking the vote for Senator as the measure of the Republican lead in Maine, the plurality was the largest since 1908 of any except Harding's plurality in the Republican landslide of 1920. Harding's plurality was about 65,000.

In 1912 Wilson carried Maine by a small plurality, but Roosevelt, running on the Progressive ticket, polled 48,493 votes. There were Progressives in Maine in 1912 sufficient to defeat the Republicans, but this year there is not the slightest evidence of a Progressive vote. The La Follette movement could not, of course, show in the ballots because there was no La Follette candidate, but there is not the slightest evidence that the movement affected the Maine vote. There is not a dent in the Republican vote to indicate that any Progressives deserted the party.

There is no evidence in the Maine election returns that anything has happened in Washington during the past four years to weaken the hold of the Republicans on the voters. If there is any popular indignation over corruption revealed by the Senate investigating committees, or any discontent on account of the tariff, the high cost of living or American isolation, or anything else that ordinarily affects the voters, it does not appear in the voting.

Unless all virtue has departed from the saying that "as Maine goes so goes the Union," the outlook is discouraging to the opposition. Of course, Maine is in the heart of New England, and fidelity to Coolidge is expected in New England, but the fidelity seems to be too exuberant to offer any consolation to the Democrats. Unless the remainder of the country radically differs from the attitude of Maine, and unless something happens between now and November to awaken the people, Mr. Coolidge will stand an excellent chance of pulling through.

Maine should be a warning at least to Mr. Davis that he has a hard row before him and that his only hope lies in a vigorous campaign, with the economic issue arising from the reign of privilege and involving high taxation and high cost of living that more and more presses down upon the people, as the big issue.

Big business and all the little business that trails in its wake, seeking the crumbs of plutocracy, want Coolidge and privilege and tariff plunder. The only hope for the Democrats or of La Follette, who is out to kill Coolidge, is to awaken the people to the inevitable disaster and hardship which must follow unbridled plutocratic control.

SABBATARIANS AND PRINCE.

The International Reform Federation, peered at the Prince of Wales for playing polo on Sunday, took the wrong tack in writing him an impudent letter from Washington, D. C. They should have enticed him into New Jersey on some pretext and got him to play a game there on Sunday. He could then have been indicted under the New Jersey blue laws which prohibit "any interludes, plays for gain, dancing, singing, fiddling or other music for merriment" on the Sabbath. Doubtless, though not mentioned, polo could be considered as an "interlude," the strict meaning of that word being a play between acts.

It is true that the 7000 indictments for Sabbath breaking, under these laws, last March, came to nothing. But the opportunity to indict a Prince would be worth something to the Sabbatarians. Perhaps they can get him in one of the states before he escapes to his Canadian ranch.

TWO MESSAGES TO THE FARMER.

The Nebraska farmer has been addressed by the spokesmen of the two major parties. At Lincoln on Aug. 30 Gen. Dawes acknowledged that the Republican party had no solution for the farmer's distress, but it planned to name a commission that would investigate the situation and eventually report what, if anything, should be done. At Omaha, a week later, Mr. Davis reminded his audience that the present administration had been fumbling with the commission plan of farm relief for four years without getting anywhere. He thinks it is time to do something and submitted the following program of agenda:

A direct, official international policy that will establish an export market for the farmer.

An adjusted tariff that will enable the farmer and every other class to buy in a competitive market.

Reduced taxation, direct and indirect, by strict economy in government.

Readjustment of rail and water rates to make the farmer's market national and international instead of local and regional.

Early completion of an internal waterways transportation system and development of water power for the manufacture of cheap fertilizer.

Stimulation of co-operative marketing by every proper governmental activity.

Credits suitable for the farmer's needs.

Such a program, if carried out, would restore agriculture to parity with other industries. It may be doubted if Mr. Dawes' proposed commission, after an indefinite period of inquiry, could improve much on those recommendations. Seemingly, then, the Nebraska farmer is likely to be more impressed by the concrete proposals of Mr. Davis than by Mr. Dawes' shadowy, shopworn promises.

A FIRST-CLASS POLICEMAN.

Patrolman James H. O'Gorman, who refused to "stick up" at the command of the robbers of Kings Theater, but drew his revolver and fought, exemplified the highest standard of police conduct. Nothing but good fortune saved his life, but he defeated the robbers' plans. Patrolman O'Gorman deserved the commendation of his superiors. He is a first-class policeman and should go higher.

TRANSPORTATION HERE AND IN DETROIT.

The development of transportation in Detroit has been so different from that in St. Louis that "pointing with pride" to present conditions in the Michigan city will not help in the solution of St. Louis' transportation problem.

It is true that, partly because of the immense traffic in Detroit, but largely on account of the inferior street railway service, Detroit welcomes competition by motor busses and jitneys. However, the busses and jitneys in that city as a rule cover territory not served by the street railways. The city operates 373 miles of street car track, carrying about 360,000,000 revenue passengers a year, at a 6-cent fare or nine tickets for 50 cents. The Detroit Motorbus Co. operates about 240 double-deck busses, and is reported to be carrying about 16,000,000 passengers a year, mainly on the boulevards, where there are no street cars. It must not be forgotten that the transportation systems of Detroit have about 200,000 more population than St. Louis to serve, while Detroit's street railway mileage is about the same. This is but a temporary condition. When the street railway purchase has been completed and this debt wiped off, the people will demand extensions, which extensions will wastefully compete with the bus lines. And the public must pay for this wasteful competition.

But if populations were equal and other conditions similar, St. Louis could not take Detroit as an example in transportation. The fight against the Detroit United Railways, brought about by poor service, was carried to the bitter end of destroying the corporation. In 1919 the people voted down a proposal to buy the street railways for $31,500,000, the figure asked by the company. Then began a battle to force the company off the streets, by the building of competing lines by the city. With the aid of a special bond issue, 100 miles of track were begun. This brought the company to terms, and the city finally bought the property for $19,850,000, to be paid in installments. Of course this price, although denounced in some quarters as excessive, was ruinous to many innocent investors in Detroit street railway property.

In rapidity of transit, equipment and service, the Detroit municipally owned street railways are inferior to those of the St. Louis United Railways. And the purchase of these lines by the City of Detroit really did not and could not settle Detroit's transportation problem. The time must come there, as it has in St. Louis, when competition will be found wasteful and costly. The service-at-cost plan, with a unified system of transportation, which is successful in the case of the Boston subways, elevated roads and surface lines, is the only scientific and businesslike plan for a public utility. It will be demanded in all up-to-date cities.

EUROPEAN SPIRIT; AMERICAN METHOD.

Forty-six nations now stand committed to the proposition of an international disarmament conference under the auspices of the League of Nations at Geneva whenever an agreement can be reached on the problem of mutual security. England, with Ramsay MacDonald as spokesman, stands almost alone, it is said, in wishing to discuss compulsory arbitration from sanctions and penalties. But this difference is only a difference of method to attain a single end—the end of avoiding a reversion to barbarism and war to settle differences which do not justify such sacrifices.

All the nations at Geneva, including even France, have been touched by a new spirit since the opening of the present session of the Assembly. The evolution of events and the incumbency of the new Liberal Premiers, MacDonald and Herriot, have worked together to relax the tenacity produced by former fears and rivalries. It took but the inspired speech of MacDonald to open men's bosoms to the point which caused many orators, says the Associated Press, to characterize the first week of the Assembly as "one of the greatest gatherings in the history of mankind."

But the problem of how to disarm, leaving all differences to arbitration, and remain secure, is still a poser. On this point a look at the United States on Defense Day may be suggestive to Europe. The American Government has inaugurated Defense Day to enable the more effectively to defend the nation without maintaining a large standing army. Europe might find the way to substitute arbitration for armies if she would train her civilian population and her industries for emergencies and retain only a small body of professional men-at-arms to serve as a nucleus for the civilian army.

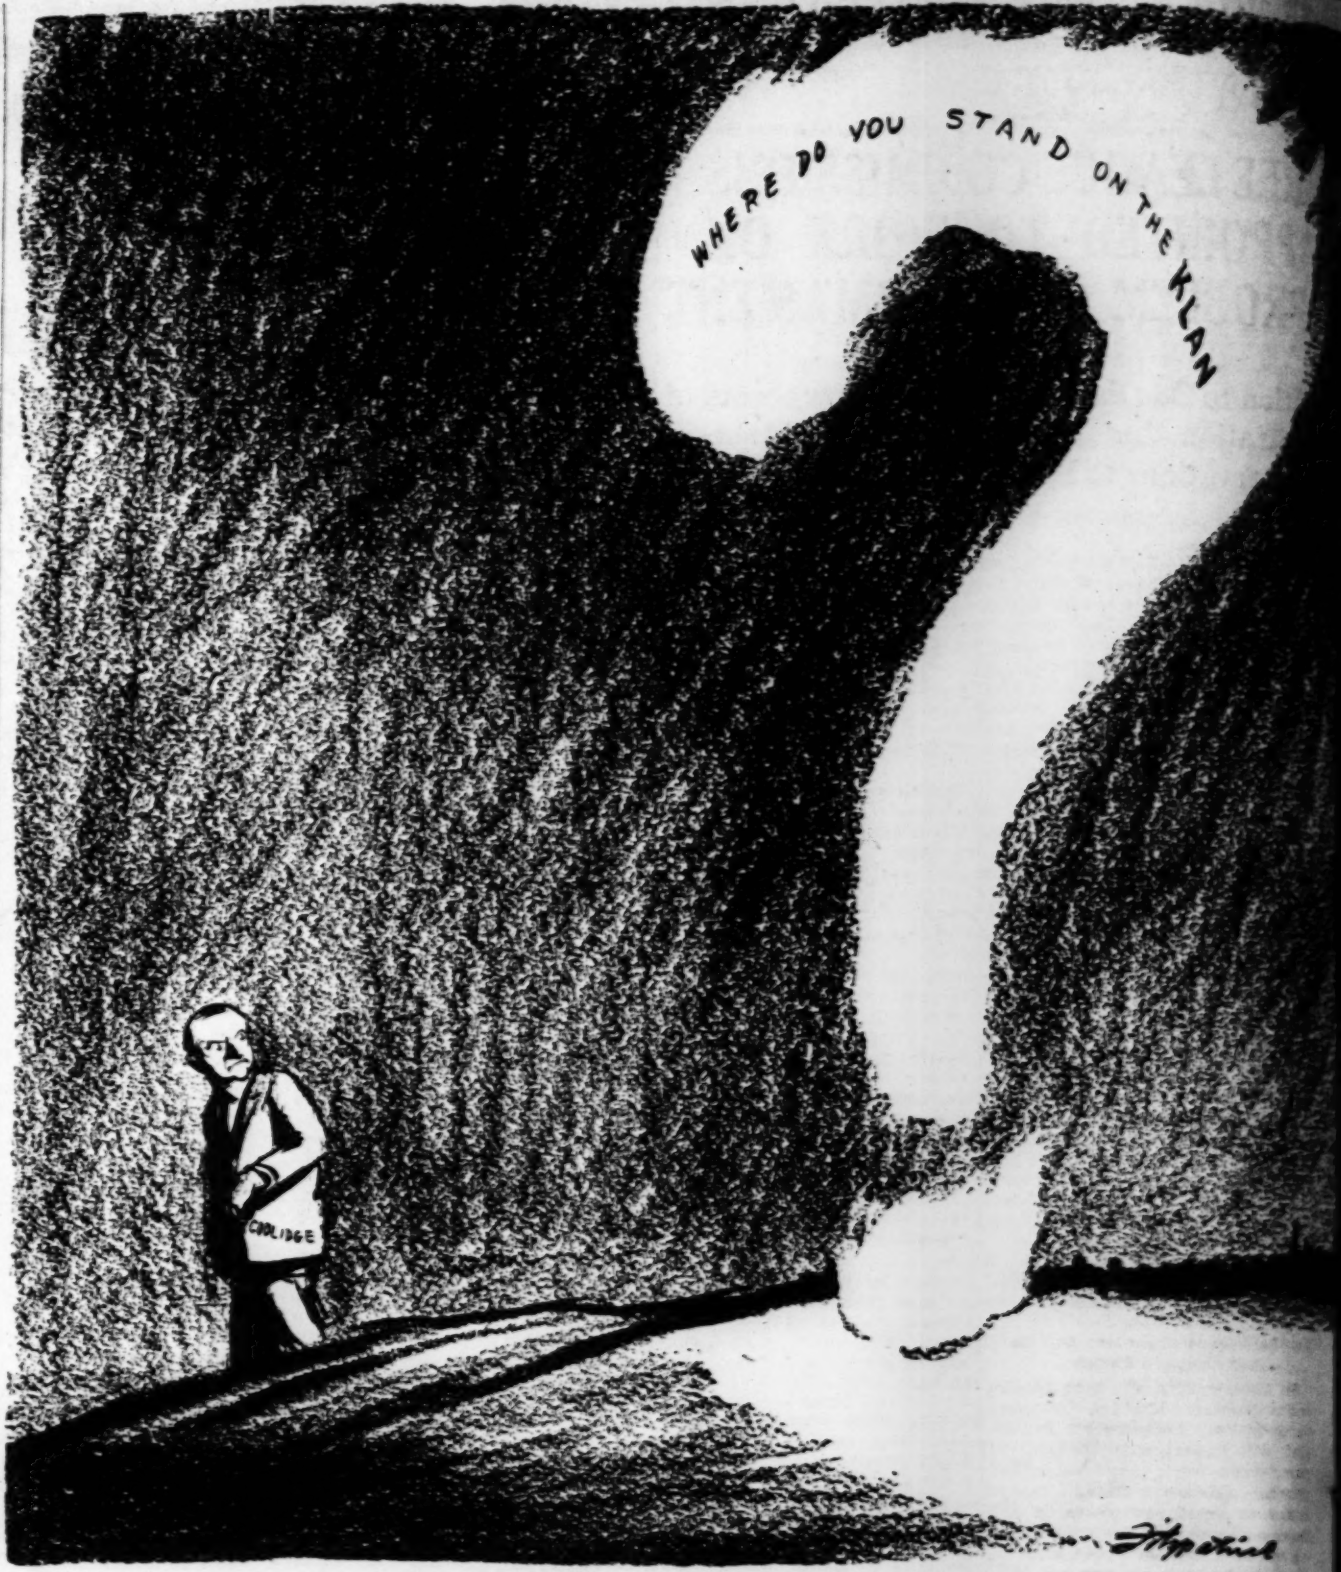

America, on the other hand, could learn a great deal from Europe's new spirit by joining and supporting all sincere movements toward arbitration and disarmament.

HOCH DIE RAKETE!

Applicants for the trip to the moon, by rocket express, please form at the right and don't shove. True, only two candidates are to be elected, but we opine that the rush will not resemble a run on a bank. The reason for the lack of interest is, of course, that the return trip is not guaranteed. If the moon should happen to be a prohibition province, the craft couldn't return.

It is Herr von Hermann Oberth of Germany who proposes the forthcoming interstellar excursion—if we may call the little old burnt-out moon a stellar object. Herr Oberth tells all about it in a little book entitled "Die Rakete zu den Planetenräumen." As we understand it, one of the planets may become the ultimate objective, but the idea is to try the Rakete on the moon first. Die Rakete is to weigh 400 tons and carry two persons, probably skipper and dipper. The latter, it may be surmised, will dip copious drafts for inner inspiration out of the 25 tons of alcohol which die Rakete will carry for fuel. Liquid hydrogen and a mixture of alcohol and water—that latter combination sounds delightfully old-timey, by the way—are to generate gases escaping through small holes at the rear of die Rakete, thus forcing the craft forward.

So far as we can learn, no arrest will follow if the chauffeur gets drunk and drives his machine so carelessly as to run down the man in the moon. A writer in that august solemn British scientific journal, Nature, remarks: "A voyage to the moon would be an attractive trip to many adventurous spirits; and in these days of unprecedented achievements one cannot venture to suggest that even Herr Oberth's ambitious scheme may not be realized before the human race is extinct."

ANOTHER KIND OF "PREPAREDNESS"

They say that war's a cursed thing and this we always knew:
Dear God! To kill a hundred men with just a shell or two?
It seems as if a lot of folks are itching for a fight;
And most of us are frightened as we're wakin' up at night.
The War-God maddly goes around to play his various parts;
And bayonets and hand-grenades are aimed at human hearts.
"Preparedness" is just the word the crowd is yellin' out.
And Preparedness "I get you, if you don't watch out."

When they want to raise an army of a million men or two,
They'll take your husbands; take your sons; and take your lovers, too.
Now keep your weapons loaded, always ready for a war.
And you will soon be having one, not knowing what it's for.
When the powder-mills are workin', and are settin' over-rich,
They'll be makin' shrapnel bullets for the hellish guns to pitch.
Ah! Preparedness deceives you, tho' you hail it with a shout,
And Preparedness "I get you, if you don't watch out."

Make your sword a useful plowshare and your spear a prunin'-hook.
Melt your cannons in the furnace; make them over into tools;
Make your war-ships peaceful vessels; turn your war-camps into schools.
Train your sons to fight life's battles 'gainst the forces of poverty and greed;
Teach them how to master passions like their avarice and greed.
This Preparedness won't hurt you, 'tis a thing I've thought about:
The sooner come the better, and you needn't watch out.

B. FRANKLIN HUNTER.

Keep Cool With Coolidge.

(Sikeston, Mo., Standard.)

An Ohio farmer has offered to turn over, rent free, to any reasonable farmer, any one of three good farms which he owns. The latter, it may be surmised, will dip copious drafts for inner inspiration out of the 25 tons of alcohol which die Rakete will carry for fuel. Liquid hydrogen and a mixture of alcohol and water—that latter combination sounds delightfully old-timey, by the way—are to generate gases escaping through small holes at the rear of die Rakete, thus forcing the craft forward.

So far as we can learn, no arrest will follow if the chauffeur gets drunk and drives his machine so carelessly as to run down the man in the moon. A writer in that august solemn British scientific journal, Nature, remarks: "A voyage to the moon would be an attractive trip to many adventurous spirits; and in these days of unprecedented achievements one cannot venture to suggest that even Herr Oberth's ambitious scheme may not be realized before the human race is extinct."

PARAGRAPHS.

Statistics published in Washington show that one person in every 10 is working for the Government. It would be very interesting to find out how many are working it.

Charles Bryan's recent notification of his nomination couldn't have possibly come as a surprise to him with somebody as talkative as his brother knowing about it all along.

One of ancient Rome's forums has been fenced in and is used as a haven for stray cats. A worthy purr-puss we call it. Loeb and Leopold are at their wits' end to find some way of killing time. Which prompts us to observe that time is one of the very few things that cannot be killed with a rubber padded chisel.

Another thing that should be brought to Charlie Dawes' attention before he launches into a speech is that nowadays ladies are present at political gatherings, as at most every other place imaginable. The astronomers are endeavoring to learn whether any intelligent human beings exist on Mars. Why not first find out whether there are any bees.

THEODORE TRILSEY.

One of the stories in E. Barrington's latest book, The Gallants, revives a famous episode between Beau Brummell and George IV, then Prince of Wales. The two men met in Watling's, an exclusive London club, just after the Prince had been led to suspect double dealing on the part of his former friend. When they met, George deliberately cut the Beau, but like an artist, "his eye wandered over him negligently, almost affably, as though he were a stranger to be pleasantly considered before forgotten." Brummell stiffened, followed the Prince's example to the lift of an eyebrow, then turned to Lord Mordaunt who had entered with the Prince.

"Mordaunt," he asked, "who's your fat friend?"
From a letter written by Dr. Robert J. Terry, president of the St. Louis Bird Club:
"I have been out of London sometime traveling about and have seen some interesting places including Stonehenge and Grimes Graves in Norfolk where the making of gun flints still goes on. While in Hants, I walked to Selborne and saw the Gilbert White country and incidentally made up a bird list for the day."

"The people in the British Museum have been mighty good in letting me use collections of all sorts for study; today it was fossil turtles."

A QUESTION OF AMERICANISM

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.
CAPT. FANTON HIBBEN, of the United States Army Reserve Corps, is in rough time of it. The Captain, who was with the American Relief Mission in Asia, has ideas concerning that which are different from those held by the State Department. Nobody knows what ideas concerning Russia the Department holds, but everybody knows that you have only to hold an idea concerning that country to be investigated by a board of inquiry.

Capt. Hibben, having done just this, is being investigated by a board of inquiry. The loss of his commission as a result of this investigation is a possibility. He is in front of the House of Representatives, Friday at 2:15 p. m., preparatory to taking position in the line of march of the Defense Test day parade. All former navy service men are invited to report and march with the reserve, if possible, in uniform.

AIR UNITS TO APPEAR IN DEFENSE PARADE

Navy Also Expected to Have Big Representation in Ceremonies.

Among the World War units that will be represented in the National Defense Test day ceremonies in St. Louis Friday will be the regular army infantry and reserve units of the Air Service, Tank Corps, Coast Artillery, Motor Transport, Balloon Service, aerial squadron, pigeon companies and airdrome companies.

The navy also expects to have a large representation from the great number of St. Louisans who served in the navy during the World War, and Lieutenant-Commander W. H. McEwen Jr., of the Naval Reserve, requests that all officers and men, who either served in the navy or marine corps and who are not at present attached to the reserve forces, to assemble with the navy units and march in the parade as a separate battalion.

At a meeting at the First Reserve Armory last night the reserve officers of St. Louis and vicinity, other than those of the 102d Division completed plans for the assignment of all who have volunteered to march.

The plans contemplate that the 24 corps and army units represented by the officers of this group be recruited to 1500 men for the parade.

The Knights of Columbus, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Sons of the American Revolution and other patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations are completing their plans to march as separate units in the parade.

Col. A. T. Perkins, chairman of the local Defense Day Committee, has announced that volunteers to join any of the units will be welcome so as to give St. Louis a representative turnout in the mobilization test.

Youths Who Won Honors at Training Camp to Parade.

St. Louis youths who won honors at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Leavenworth in August, will appear with the unit of young men who have attended citizens' military training camps during this and past years, in the Defense day parade Friday, according to Capt. Joseph W. Eollenbeck, who was on duty at reserve officers' and citizens' training camps at Fort Leavenworth. The following St. Louis youths were honored for distinguished conduct and service:

Park W. Judah, 4206 Botanical avenue; Clifford B. Wheeler, 4228A Linton avenue; James S. Harrison; Robert Light, 819 Bonaparte avenue; Webster Groves; Benjamin C. Kudas, 2111 Cherokee street; Arthur A. Edwards, 510 Fairview avenue; Webster Groves; Herbert W. Fisher, 4256 Adelaide avenue; Walter E. Rodenroth, 3529 Grace street and C. J. Holzhauser, 4142 Penrose street.

Lieutenant Commander W. H. McEwen of the Naval Reserve, has issued orders for the Naval Reserve to assemble on Kingshighway in front of Barnes Hospital, Friday at 2:15 p. m. Preparatory to taking position in the line of march of the Defense Test day parade. All former navy service men are invited to report and march with the reserve, if possible, in uniform.

QUEEN DANCES HOURS TO JAZZ

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Princeton jazz orchestra returned yesterday on the liner Franconia. The orchestra, made up of students of the University, played in many European cities and before the thousands of persons, but none, all asserted upon their arrival, enjoyed the jazz music more than the Queen of Spain.

They played before King Alfonso and Queen Victoria at Santander, their summer palace, and while the King sat out most of the dances, the Queen remained on the floor for hours without stopping. Once she left the ballroom, but only to change her shoes so she might continue dancing with greater ease.

BABY LASCELLES' CHRISTENING OCT. 5

Princess Mary Reported Improving—Duke of York to Tour in Africa Next Winter.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Sept. 9.—The date of Sunday, Oct. 5, has been tentatively chosen for the christening of the second baby boy of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles.

Princess Mary continues to make good progress and for the last week she has been permitted to sit up a little while each day. It will not be long now before she is allowed to leave her room and then Baby Lascelles will get his first airing in the park of Goldborough Hall in the arms of his nurse.

It is most probable that neither King George nor Queen Mary will attend the christening ceremony at the old church in Goldborough Village. The Queen is understood to have decreed that the occasion should be left to the young people this time and the principal attendants are likely to be the younger members of British royal families, supplemented by a few close personal friends of both families.

Yorks to Tour East Africa. English society, which is now beginning to think of how it will pass the winter season in London and at Southern continental resorts, will have to leave out of their plans for coming gayeties the Duke and Duchess of York, for the latter couple expect to depart for a tour of East Africa in November and will not return to this country until February.

Their visit is to be entirely private and will include trips through Kenya and Uganda. This will be the first time the Duke has visited any part of the empire since he was a midshipman in the British navy. Such a trip long has been an ambition of his.

"I assure you I envy my brother," he said on one occasion when deputizing for the Prince of Wales while the latter was on his empire tour.

There have been repeated rumors that the Duke is about to be made Governor-General of one of the dominions, but each time the report was denied officially. It is still believed, however, that he will take up some work of that sort before long. There is a feeling that it will be in one of the British protectorates rather than in a dominion.

Premier Guest of Castle. Premier MacDonald again has braved the wrath of the "wild men" of Labor when he passed a weekend as a guest of King George and Queen Mary at Balmoral Castle.

He motored over from Lossiemouth a week ago Saturday morning and on Sunday he attended service at Crathie Church with members of the royal family. Prince George of Highland dress walked in company with Sir Charles Cuthbert, the King's equerry, followed by the Prime Minister with Lord Stamfordham, the King's private secretary, who pointed out the various places of interest on the way.

Just before the service began, the King and Queen drove up, the former in Highland dress. Afterward, MacDonald drove back to Balmoral in the royal carriage with the King and Queen. The Premier's two daughters remained at his home at Lossiemouth, where they are staying during his absence at Geneva.

Frederick Sterling, councillor at the American Embassy here, and Mrs. Sterling have just returned from a two weeks' shooting and golfing vacation in Scotland. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munn of Philadelphia at the Dunkeld estate which the latter owns.

22 THEATERS PLANNED IN NEW MOTION PICTURE WARFARE

Warner Bros. Announce $11,700,000 Program to Fight the "Distributing Trust."

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—War on what they termed the "motion picture distributing trust," has been declared here by Warner Bros. Studio, with the announcement by H. M. Warner, president, that plans had been completed to invade the largest cities of the United States and Canada with a string of 22 "independent" theaters costing $11,700,000.

The cities where the fight for the screen business of two counties will be staged are: New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Denver, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Boston, Atlanta, Memphis, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Dallas, Vancouver, B. C., Montreal, Quebec and Toronto, Ont.

Plans are under consideration for a theater to cost $1,000,000 in New York. Another, with its tributary producing stage, is nearing completion in Hollywood, at a cost of $250,000. In each of the other cities the theaters are to cost $500,000, it is said.

The last named 20 screen houses will be identical in architecture, plans having been drawn for them in New York.

Before departing for the East, to complete final arrangements for construction, and to inspect sites which have been obtained during the last six months in a number of the cities, where building is to be started within 60 days, H. M. Warner declared yesterday that his organization had been forced into the distributing business owing to lack of suitable theaters throughout the United States and Canada where his studio's pictures could be shown.

HISTORY OF VEILED PROPHET FOR INSTRUCTION OF CHILDREN

Booklet to Be Distributed in All Schools Previous to Pageant This Year.

A history of the reign of the Veiled Prophet, who will come to St. Louis Oct. 7, with his pageant, has been printed in booklet form for the instruction of children in all the schools of St. Louis, so that when they view the pageant this year they will be fully informed concerning its significance.

The booklet also will contain a full description of each float in the pageant, together with a history of how the mysterious potentate came to be chosen as patron of St. Louis.

This is the first time an effort has been made to bring the children into the spirit of the annual festival, and the booklets will be distributed in the schools in time for the children to inform themselves of the significance of the event.

The ball this year will not immediately follow the street pageant, but will be held Wednesday night following the arrival of the Veiled Prophet.

FORBES GOES ON TRIAL MONDAY

Four indictments in Veterans' Bureau Case Are Released.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Four indictments suppressed indictments against Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, were released yesterday. Col. Forbes goes to trial next Monday before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter here on charges of bribery and corruption in his administration of the Veterans' Bureau.

The indictments, which also name John W. Thompson, Chicago and St. Louis contractor, who is charged with having given Forbes a bribe, were drawn up to replace the four originally drawn last February. Charges in them are virtually the same as those in the original bills, which were attacked by counsel for the defendants on the ground they had been obtained by coercion and irregular methods in the grand jury proceedings.

LAWYER TESTIFIES AGAINST NOELL IN DISBARMENT SUIT

Walter L. Brady, Former Associate, Tells of Conversation With Defendant About Missing Witness.

CONTRADICTS OTHER WITNESSES IN CASE

Charles P. Noell Quoted as Saying He Sent Witness in Damage Suit Out of Town.

Walter L. Brady, a lawyer, associated with Charles P. Noell from June, 1922, to last February, was the chief witness against Noell yesterday at the trial of the St. Louis Bar Association's suit to suspend or disbar Noell from legal practice. The case is being heard by Circuit Judge Percy, the defense having withdrawn its original objection to him because he is a member of the Bar Association. Brady quoted Noell as admitting in their offices in the Pierce Building on the night of Dec. 13 last that he had induced Earl Fredericks, a witness in a damage suit against the Big Four Railroad, then on trial before Circuit Judge Hall, to leave town. Fredericks' absence the following day caused a mistrial.

Tells of Conversation. Noell, as quoted by Brady, said he had visited Fredericks at the Pontiac Hotel and had driven him across the Eads bridge to East St. Louis, where he purchased a one-way ticket to Evansville and put Fredericks on the train. During the ride over the bridge, according to Brady, Noell stopped his automobile and declared to Fredericks: "If I thought you came here to treat me dirty, I'd throw you in the river."

The defense claims Wilson A. Noell, a brother of the defendant, was the man who visited Fredericks at the hotel, but it denies that he or any other representative of Charles P. Noell induced Fredericks to quit St. Louis. Brady denied Wilson A. Noell had admitted to him that he saw Fredericks, and he expressed doubt that Wilson was in St. Louis at that time.

Denies Acting as "Spy." In line with the defense allegation that the present suit is the result of a conspiracy against Noell, because he has obtained judgments of more than $1,000,000 in damage suits against railroads, Brady was asked if he had been placed in Noell's office as a "spy" for the railroads. He denied this, and said his contract with Noell called for $100 a month salary, for which he prepared pleadings and briefs, argued cases on appeal, and sometimes tried cases. The salary was reduced to $250 some time later when Noell objected to the extent of Brady's outside legal practice. In reply to questions by Noell's counsel, Brady denied "knocking" his employer to clients; calling him a "rascal" or that he, Brady, was ever caught copying Noell's confidential files. He said there was no mention of loyalty to Noell in their contract, but he read it in anyway. However, he added, "I was under no obligation to suppress the truth."

In connection with Noell's assertion that he was in the Law Library, at the time his brother visited Fredericks, his counsel brought out the fact that the Pierce Building register for Dec. 13 last, is missing. The register which every person entering or leaving the building after 7 p. m. is required to sign, would show whether Noell was in the building.

Other Witnesses Heard.

Harry L. Edwards, clerk at the Pontiac Hotel, testified substantially as in a deposition taken a few weeks ago. He admitted having identified Charles P. Noell as Fredericks' visitor, when called before Judge Hall on Dec. 19, but averred he is now unable to confirm the identification, due to lapse of time.

Circuit Judge Hall, the first witness yesterday, testified to starting the original investigation of Fredericks' disappearance.

WAY CLEARED FOR REFERENDUM ON COURTHOUSE ISSUE

Question Will Go to the Voters Unless Unexpected Action Is Taken by Aldermen.

Unless the unexpected is done by the Board of Aldermen, which has been called in special session next Monday by the Mayor, to reconsider the ordinance locating the new $4,000,000 bond issue courthouse on Memorial Plaza, under the referendum process, the question will go to the voters of St. Louis for determination.

If, as expected, the Aldermen reapprove the ordinance immediately, or by the end of next week, the proposition will go on the ballot at the general election, Nov. 4.

Provision of Charter. The charter provides that the Aldermen shall reconsider an ordinance on which the referendum has been invoked, before the question goes to the people. It is believed at City Hall that the Aldermen will reapprove the ordinance, since the vote by which they passed it originally was overwhelming. The board's vacation period ordinarily would not have ended till Sept. 26.

The Courthouse Referendum Committee had till tomorrow to file its final petition, but filed them six days ahead of time. The Election Board might have taken 10 days thereafter to check the signatures on the petitions, but instead completed this work last night.

This check showed that out of 32,426 signatures to the final petitions, 20,150 were valid signatures of voters. There were 7179 valid signatures on the initial petitions, so that the total of valid signatures is 27,329, whereas the minimum required was 21,479.

All Desirous of Vote. The Courthouse Referendum Committee, comprising downtown interests which want the courthouse kept on Broadway; the Plaza Courthouse Committee, which favors the plaza site and opposes the object of the referendum; and Mayor Kiel, who has agreed with the referendum group, all are desirous of having the controversy settled by the people.

However, the chairman of the Plaza Courthouse Committee, former Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge, declared today that his group is not anxious to have the question submitted at the general election, when national, State and local officials will be elected and various State initiative proposals acted on. The reason, he said, was fear of the effect of the habitual negative vote encountered at a general election on referendum and other propositions.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

positions. They are afraid that the courthouse site ordinance might be repealed by the ballots of many persons who regularly vote in the negative through lack of information and interest in public questions.

"But," said Rutledge, "we will not interfere with the prompt reconsideration of the ordinance by the Board of Aldermen. While we are of the opinion that public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the plaza site, the habitual negative vote is to the other side's advantage and there is some risk. But we expect to win."

Mayor Kiel's call for a special session of the Board of Aldermen, which he directed the City Council to prepare, provides for reconsideration of two ordinances under the referendum procedure—the one for the courthouse site and the one directing the City Council or to drop condemnation proceedings for a northeast approach for the municipal bridge.

PARIS WOULD KEEP WHITE HOUSE WHITE, HE SAYS

Candidate Declares There Would Be No Oil or Boozing Sploches.

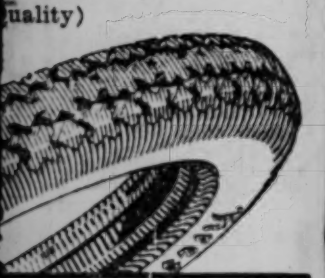

The Associated Press, CHERRYVALE, Kan., Sept. 8.—Declaring that his party stood for "preservation and improvement of the morals of the people," P. Paris, of Clinton, Mo., prohibition nominee for the presidency, said in an address here today that, if he is elected, "we will have as much White House, without a splash of oil or booze, thereon as there is in the White House."

Paris spoke before the Woodmen of the World, Representatives from Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma were present.

The two old parties, he said, have not yet clearly and unequivocally declared themselves dry. "I put the question up to Mr. Davis as to whether he heard his party were wet dry. He sidestepped by declaring that he would enforce the law and would have to take an oath to do so," Paris continued. "You may ask why I didn't put the question. Could he. It was not necessary, keeping Mr. Mellon, one of the leading distillers of our country, as secretary of the Treasury, and I heard from all officials connected with the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law, lawyers that question."

"It was not necessary to propose the question to La Follette, whose record of association with those who in times past claimed to make Milwaukee famous through manufacture of hell's broth, beer, is well known."

KINSEY OPPOSED BUS PERMIT ACTION

Head of Company Says Public Service Board President Was in Accord With Plan.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service gave his consent to any action his associates on the board might take in granting bus permits, before he left for the East, C. W. Meade, president of the People's Motor Bus Co., asserted in an address to the property owners in the Shaw-Russell district at Bryan University School, 4221 Shaw boulevard last night.

His statement came in reply to a question asked by E. J. Wallace, relative to the action of the board in awarding 43 miles of street right-of-way to the People's Motor Bus Co., after Kinsey had expressly stated that action on the permits was deferred until he returned.

Denies Report.

"That is not true," Meade replied. "Kinsey told the members of the board who voted the permits that he had confidence in their judgment and that any action taken by them in his absence would be acceptable to him. I heard him say that myself."

Meade further explained his statement today and said that Kinsey was in accord with a policy of granting permits applied for by the People's Motor Bus Co. for long routes and was committed to a plan of giving extension permits connecting with street car lines to the St. Louis Bus Co., a United Railways subsidiary.

A friend of Kinsey's, who saw him in Philadelphia the day he was advised of the special meeting of the board and the granting of permits to the People's Motor Bus Co., said that his indignation was spontaneous and that it came as a complete surprise to him. Kinsey told this friend that he expressly told board members that he would prefer that no permits be awarded immediately.

Disbands Without Action.

The meeting last night was called by property owners to protest against the granting of permits on Russell and Shaw boulevards. However, it disbanded without action amid a babel of tongues and a charge by Chairman Wallace, who is president of the South St. Louis Business Men's League, that the meeting was "packed." He said a large number of motorbus drivers were in attendance. The reception received by Meade when he opened his address was certainly not that of a hostile array of property owners, resenting his company's entry into their territory.

Meade explained that his company was anxious to give service, that it was not dangerous (citing 16 months' operation without having injured a child), and that the buses returned an average of more than $800 per year per bus to the city.

Wallace then demanded to know if any stock in the People's Motor Bus Co. was held by city officials. "Not one penny's worth," Meade replied.

Will Start Friday.

Property owners questioned him about his statement that a bus did less damage to a properly constructed street than a large type limousine. He stood upon the statement.

The bus service on this route which evoked the protest last night will be started Friday morning, Meade said. It is known as the Lindenwood-Gratiot route and runs from Broadway and Washington to Lindenwood over Russell boulevard from Broadway to Tower Grove avenue and Shaw boulevard from Tower Grove avenue to Kings-highway.

Meade said today that he had no information that John Hertz of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Omnibus Co. of America, which controls the buses here, would visit St. Louis to straighten out the tangles that have come up.

Two Hurt Cranking Autos.

James Smatherian, 52, of 1778A Mississippi avenue and Clarence Davis, 15, a telegraph messenger, 1717 South Seventh street, were treated at the city hospital yesterday for fractures of the right arm suffered in cranking Ford automobiles.

Smatherian was cranking his own machine and Davis was cranking a neighbor's.

FIRE CHIEF MADE A JUDGE

Kansas City Ordinance Aimed at Prosecution of Incendiarism.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Mayor

Albert I. Beach yesterday signed an ordinance investing the Chief of the Fire Department with the powers of a municipal judge, permitting him to conduct hearings, summon witnesses, administer oaths and hear testimony.

If the evidence adduced at the hearing is regarded by the Chief as sufficient to warrant prosecution, he is empowered to file such information with the county prosecutor. "Fire department records show 70 per cent of the fires in Kansas City are of incendiary origin," said Chief Alex Henderson. "Heretofore, we have not been able to get at these incendiaries, except through grand jury action."

UNION ELECTRIC

New Lamps for Old FREE

Save your burned-out electric lamps. Most of the lamps in your home, after they have burned out, still are worth as much as you paid for them.

The Reason is that Union Electric Light and Power Co. gives new lamps free for the burned-out lamps of the type most commonly used by its residence customers. Lamp renewals is one of Union Electric services which customers can use to their profit.

Lamps given free in exchange for burned-out lamps are those best suited for home uses. These include all Mazda B lamps of 50 or more watts. More than 65 per cent of all lamps sold last year by Union Electric were 50 and 60-watt Mazda B lamps. And these are exchanged free.

A charge—only a fraction of cost—is made for other Mazda B lamps and for new lamps of the Mazda C type when taken in exchange for burned-out lamps. A similar small charge is made for pear-shaped lamps with frosted bowl.

The company is unable to include in this free service round, frosted and novelty lamps, whose use is chiefly decorative.

Buy your lamps in the beginning from Union Electric, because it sells lamps approximately 10 per cent cheaper than manufacturer's list price—because free lamp exchange applies only to lamps originally bought from this company. The only other restriction to free lamp exchange is that the glass bulbs must be unbroken.

It is not necessary to carry lamps to and from this Company's office to obtain free exchange. Just telephone Main 3220 and say "lamps." Tell how many lamps and what size you want and how many burned out lamps you have to turn in. A lamp wagon of the company will deliver the new lamps within 24 hours in most parts of the city and will collect the burned out lamps.

Why We Give FREE Renewals

This company wants its service to be beyond complaint in all respects. If it furnishes the best lamps that it can get to its customers, it can be sure that light in the home will be good. It can be sure that lamps will meet three important requirements of customers:

1. That each lamp will use the amount of current its label states it will use.
2. That each lamp will give the amount of light that should be produced by a lamp using that amount of current.
3. That each lamp will burn as long as such lamps should burn.

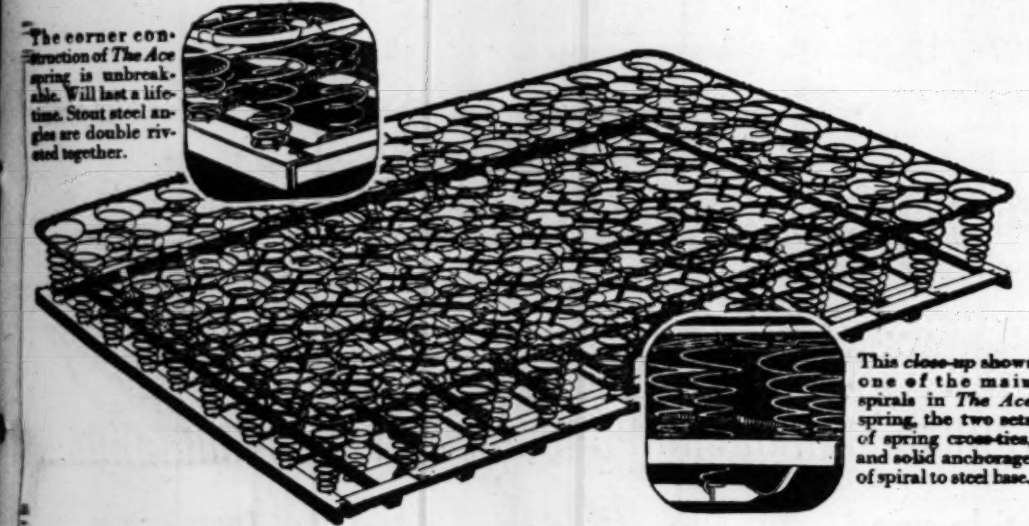

CALL
3220

The company carefully makes sure that its lamps are up to this high standard by employing the Electrical Testing Laboratories of New York to make constant tests of its stock. If the lamps fail to meet the rigid test given there, they are rejected and the manufacturer compelled to replace them with lamps that do meet the test.

The Simmons ACE Spring
Get more value for less money!

You cannot find in any store in your city as fine an open-box spring as The Ace at so low a price. This statement we want you to check for yourself. Ask your favorite merchant to show you The Ace and then test it in every possible way that reveals quality.

This spring is different. It has 142 more coils than similar springs—some of them higher in price! These 142 extra coils tie the main spirals at the center. Ordinary springs use stiff wires or slats for that purpose. You get extra comfort from this exclusive feature in The Ace, without any extra cost.

The Ace spring has no "side-sway" because Simmons stabilizers prevent it. These act like the shock absorbers on a motor car, and you cannot find them on any ordinary open-box spring, even at a higher price than the Simmons Aces sell for.

Study the spring you are using now. Compare it with The Ace and see how much comfort and lifetime use you get—yet how little you need to pay for it! The Ace price is low because it's built by thousands in the largest bedding factories in the world.

HERRIN K. K. RAIDERS HELD ON U. S. CHARGE

Harold Steyer, 29, Arrested Here, Is Accused of Transporting Stolen Auto.

A Federal warrant, charging violation of the Dyer Act in transporting a stolen car across a State boundary, was issued today against Harold Steyer, 29 years old, of Herrin, Ill., who is being held at Police Headquarters for the Department of Justice while detectives are investigating the theft of an automobile found in his possession yesterday.

Steyer, who told the police he was a member of the Williamson County (Ill.) Constabulary, a member of the Ku Klux Klan and an aid of S. Glenn Young, Klan liquor raider, denied knowing the car was stolen. He said it was part of the equipment of the Williamson County Constabulary and that he had brought it to St. Louis for repairs.

Steyer was arrested at the Vesper-Buick service station, Vandeventer avenue and West Nine boulevard by Detectives Sullivan and Ising of the Automobile Squad, at 4:30 p. m. yesterday after he had driven to the place in the Buick machine, which bore an Illinois license number. The detectives, in looking the machine over, discovered the number of the motor had been altered, and in the car found a loaded .45 caliber automatic.

While examination of Steyer's other effects was in progress, Clyde Fuller, a Buick dealer of Benton, Ill., dropped into the place on business and promptly identified the car as one he had sold to Clyde Harris of West Frankfort on July 1 last, and which Harris reported stolen two weeks later.

Search of Steyer's pockets at police headquarters yielded numerous badges, permits and tokens of local authority. Among these was a star bearing the legend: "Department of Constabulary, Bureau of Intelligence, No. 2494."

K. K. K. Membership Card.

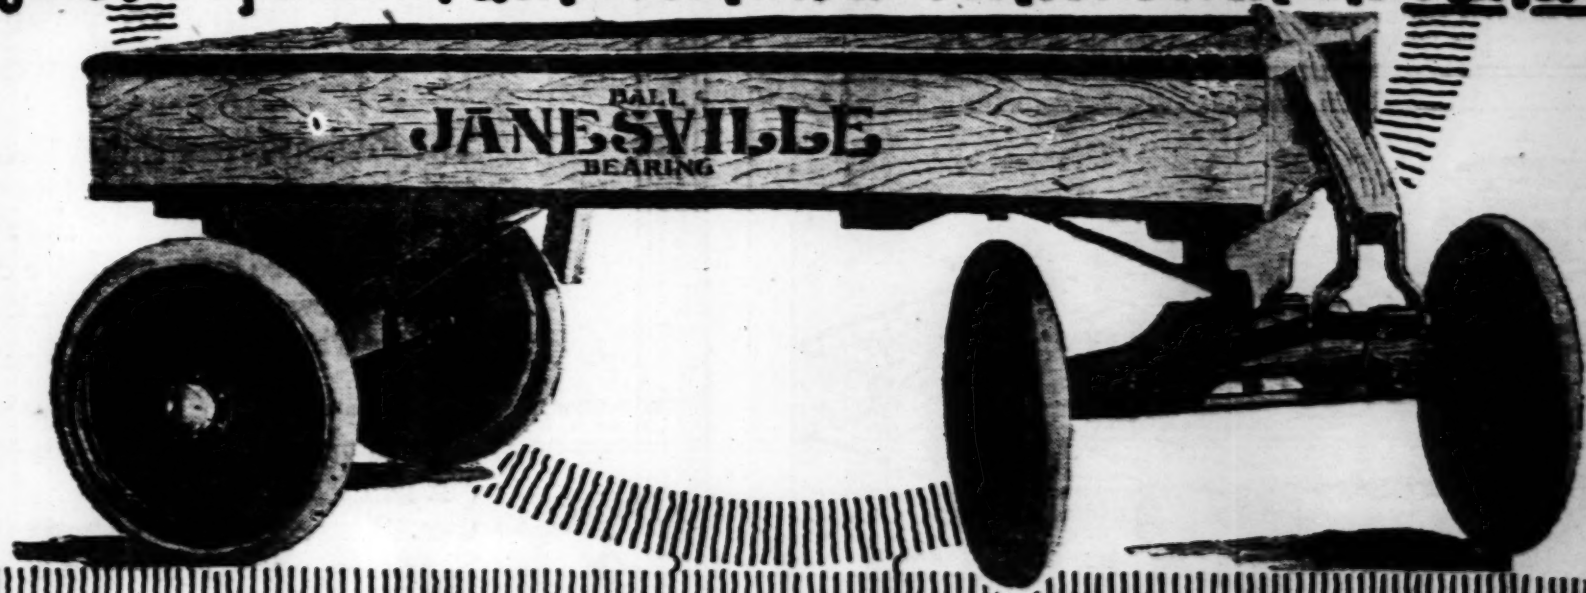

A Ku Klux Klan membership card, found among these effects showed Steyer had been initiated on Nov. 24, 1932, upon payment of a $10 fee. There was also found a permit authorizing Steyer to carry concealed weapons. It was dated March 21, 1934, and signed by Abe Hicks, a Police Magistrate of Herrin. Another permit signed by the same magistrate and countersigned by S. Glenn Young, authorized the bearer to participate in raids. Still another certificate, signed by J. R. Howe of Herrin, stated that Steyer had been duly deputized on April 1, 1934, to prevent cruelty to animals and to join in the pursuit and arrest of automobile thieves.

Steyer says he is all his certificates claim for him and that he knows nothing about the altered motor number.

HEARING ON SOUTHERN PACIFIC EXPANSION PROPOSAL

Consolidation With El Paso
Southwestern Urged by K
schmitt Before I. C.
Director.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today began a hearing on the application of the Southern Pacific and El Paso railroads for consolidation of the two roads, and the application of the Arizona Eastern railroad to construct 210 miles of road from Phoenix to the Arizona Eastern subsidiary of the Southern Pacific.

Acquisition of the El Paso Southwestern, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Southern Pacific Board, testified, gave the Southern Pacific a coast-to-coast line from Chicago to the coast, and enable it to compete successfully with the Pacific and the Santa Fe. The consolidation would open up new territory in the Southwest.

HEARING ON SOUTHERN PACIFIC EXPANSION PROPOSAL OPENED

Consolidation With El Paso & Southern Railway Urged by Kruttschnitt Before I. C. C. Director.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A hearing to acquire the El Paso & Southern Railway by the Southern Pacific company, as a means of strengthening the Southern Pacific's El Paso route in competition with the Santa Fe and Union Pacific roads, was sought by the Southern Pacific and other interests yesterday at a hearing before Finance Director Charles D. Reed of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The hearing is being conducted jointly on the application of the Southern Pacific and El Paso Southern Railway for consolidation of the two roads, and the application of the Arizona Eastern railroad to construct 230 miles of road in Arizona. The Arizona Eastern is a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific.

Acquisition of the El Paso & Southern, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Southern Pacific's Executive Board, testified, would give the Southern Pacific virtually a double track line from Chicago to the coast, and enable it to compete more successfully with the Union Pacific and the Santa Fe. It also would open up new territory in the west.

BANK ROBBER DENIED PAROLE

Board Refuses to Recommend Clemency for Reed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9.—After reviewing the case and prison record of Earl Reed, a convict in the Missouri penitentiary here, serving a 20-year sentence from robbing the Bank of Exeter, Dec. 21, 1921, the State Board of Pardons and Paroles yesterday refused to recommend to Gov. Hyde that Reed be granted a parole.

When it was announced recently that Reed would be given a hearing before the board on the regular monthly docket for September a storm of protests arose from citizens in Barry County and other parts of Southwest Missouri. Hundreds of letters protesting against Reed being granted a parole have been received by the parole board. It was stated, and many branches of the Missouri Bankers' Association also protested. At the hearing yesterday an attorney representing the Bankers' Association appeared and made a vigorous argument against any clemency being shown Reed.

WILLS WILL WIN IF CONDITION MEANS ANYTHING, WRAY WRITES DAZZY

Early Knockout Appears To Be Firpo's Only Hope In Bout Thursday Night

Sporting Editor Says Rumors in New York That Fight Is Fixed for Firpo to Win Sure, Are Without Foundation—Opportunity Is Greatest in Negro's Life.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—If physical fitness means anything Luis Angel Firpo is in for a bigger whipping than that planned for him by Canon Chase. According to the grand chorus of "Once over" boys, the experts assembled here for the barbarous battle between the Brown Panther and the Pampas Bull, Firpo is full of confidence and beefsteaks, while Harry Wills is as near "in the pink" as one of his complexion can hope to be.

It is the consensus of men really qualified to pass upon physical condition that Wills has not in all his life devoted so much effort to getting into physical shape for a fight; while it is equally the common belief that Firpo's training has been divided between serious and silliness—the last induced by the many aggravations that have developed since his arrival. The difference in their condition may decide the million dollar issue Thursday.

Both Firpo and Wills completed all of their real training yesterday. Whatever remained undone up to that time will remain undone forever. Apparently Firpo is not worrying, but the arguments used to support him do not ring true with those who are familiar with the misfortunes that can result from insufficient training, even though the bout be only a no-decision one, at 12 rounds.

Firpo's View of Fight.
The Firpo camp expresses the view that the fight will not go far and therefore the need of severe physical training is negligible.

But even the shortest contest, if conducted at top speed, requires wind and stamina, and we judge that Firpo is not at the peak in either. As between a more roundhouse mitt pitcher, in half condition, and an experienced fighter, trained to the minute, it is impossible to give Firpo any edge. If he doesn't win in two or three rounds he will surely be doomed. For in that time he will see more gloves, even though perhaps not so deadly ones, than punctured him in the Dempsey fight.

Because Firpo has not thrown himself wholeheartedly into his training, and because he is a white man, the usual scandal-mongering is preceding this fight. It is the effect that Wills is getting his last "piece of change"—it's a big piece at that—and that Firpo is still to win. The cards are supposed to be stacked for the white man. Nothing could be further from the truth. The opportunity is the greatest in Wills' life—the greatest in the history of any negro fighter of past or present times. Since it means that Dempsey MUST meet Wills for the title.

Up to the Commission.
Whichever fighter wins the coming match the Athletic Commission of New York is bound to insist that Champion Dempsey meet him. There can be no back tracking if the dusky party conquers the Bull. The Commission will be forced to insist under its rules that Dempsey accept a challenge within six months or forfeit his crown. Nor can he hide behind any impossible money demand.

Mixed bouts may cause promoters some uneasiness. It took place Rickard has arranged the Firpo-Wills encounter, he can have no excuse for not putting on one between the champion and the "cuddly pussen" should Wills beat the Argentine.

Texas Is Used to It.
The Firpo complication is not the first interracial trouble that has harassed Rickard. He had a similar snarl when he matched Jeffries and Jack Johnson to battle in San Francisco.

The Governor of California took a hand in the 1919 episode. It was said of the Jeffries-Johnson match that Denmark of Shakspeare's day smelled like a beauty shop by comparison. The Golden Gate bade Tex and his pugilistic circus step along. They traveled to Reno with the largest financial returns ever known in pugilistic circles to that time—$278,000.

Looking Forward.
The sport program for this vicinity makes up about the most remarkable week in the history of the United States.

The program includes:
International polo matches today and Saturday.

Davis Cup challenge round, Australia vs. America, at Philadelphia, the last three days of the week.

The Firpo-Wills fight Thursday night.

The Walker Cup international amateur golf event Friday and Saturday.

The future race, the greatest event for 2-year-olds in the country.

70-Year-Old Main Hope of British Polo Team

Jimmy Faulkner who has charge of the ponies of the invading polo players, with Bubbles I.

Jimmie Faulkner, Picturesque Keeper of Britons' Polo Ponies

He Is 70 and the Father of 31 Children, and His Father Is Alive at 99—Says Little Except "They're Good Ponies."

By Peter Vischer,
Of the New York World Staff.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Americans, accustomed to athletic victories and confident of their prowess in any sport, take it for granted that their polo team will make short work of the Britons in their matches for the famous international challenge cup at the Meadow Brook Club.

Not so Jimmie Faulkner. Jimmie is in charge of the British ponies, as he was when the British were victorious in the matches of 1914. He has now seen both teams in action.

"We shall give them a good rough-up," he said.

Charge it to inexperience if you will, Jimmie is only 70. But his dad agrees with him. And his dad, man and boy, is 99.

Jimmy Faulkner 70—"turned 70," indeed! He's a smiling little fellow with spindly legs and considerable of a paunch, a good bit heavier than he used to be (12 stone now, when he used to be only eight or nine), but probably as red-faced now as ever he was. He looks like he might be in his 40's somewhere, or at most his 50's. But 70!

Still, it's not so difficult to believe when you learn that Jimmie is the father of 31 children. That would be almost too much to expect of a mere strapping of 50 or 60. Too many children? Why, not! At Jimmie's dad, he who is 99 today and "doing pretty fair," had 27. Jimmie's the eldest of them. And most of them are alive today.

It is a pony-wise family. Dad, whose name is John Faulkner, is one of the most famous of England's old school of jockeys. He has ridden hundreds of winners. He won a steeplechase when he was 70—and that's something Jimmie will admit he can't do today. But one of his sons, Lester Faulkner, is one of England's best jockeys. Five others of his sons might have made good jockeys, but they were killed in France, soldiers of the famous Worcesters and Berkshires, laid at Ypres and Mons.

For years now Jimmie has been with Lord Wimborne, to whom English polo owes much, at his Vice-regal estate in England, and his ancestral home in England, at Rugby. Jimmie is the studgroom at Rugby, complete charge of Lord Wimborne's stable, consisting of 80-odd horses, 32 of them polo ponies and the rest hunters. Most of the ponies that will be played by the British in the coming international matches belong to Lord Wimborne.

Fairly Story is a bay mare, easy to maneuver, fast and courageous. Lady Bird is a chestnut mare, with a quick agility suited to her name. Miss Nimrod is a bay pony, "a very, very good pony," of whom the British expect much. Vulma is a race horse, and according to Jimmie, she is extremely fast, but a bit fragile; the Indians generally lack stamina. Hello is a "very, very good pony" that belongs to the Duke of Westminster. Chilli is a black, not only fast and brave, but

1,000,000 GALLONS OF OIL BURN WHEN LIGHTNING STRIKES TANK

Huge Storage Plant of Standard Oil Co. in North Carolina Is Total Loss.

By the Associated Press. WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 9.—More than a million gallons of kerosene were destroyed here early today, when lightning struck the storage tank of the Standard Oil Co. Spreading flames quickly transformed the 70-foot high tank into a blowtorch which bored a hole through the darkness and shot a wall of flame skyward fully 200 feet above the topmost rim of the tank.

CHAPTER 25.

A DESPERATE RESOLVE

FEAR lent wings to Marjorie's feet as she sped down the stairs and out through the drawing room to the portico where she had left her brother-in-law apparently sleeping in the sun—fear that the blackness of his disappointment at being unable to save his voice, the bleakness of the future which stared him in the face, might drive him to an act of violence. He had looked so strange when he had agreed with her that there were some things one couldn't stand, though she had referred to her own position in the matter of asking Hollister for the necessary price of the operation.

Ivan was not on the portico where she had left him. A little bundle of shawls and rugs lay beside his empty chair where he had tossed them. Panic gripped her throat. That revolver in the desk drawer in the library—

She dashed through the French windows and ran to the library. The door was closed, and when she flung herself against it and for one minute it held against her weight, the dizziness thought came to her that he had locked himself in. She knew then that she had come too late!

But the door gave. It swung inward, bearing her with it.

Ivan, tall, gaunt, in his dressing gown, was standing unsteadily by the table, his back toward her. He was staring down at something in his hand.

"Ivan!" At her sharp command he started, his fingers loosened their grip on what they held and the object clattered to the floor. He did not turn around, even when she stooped and snatched up the fallen revolver.

"Why did you come?" he asked dully, still not looking at her. "A moment more and I'd have been out of all this—this hell."

"Ivan," she came to him, infinitely compassionate, "please don't talk like that! Don't even think like that! Thank God, I did come in time! You wouldn't want to go out like a coward, would you?"

"I'd rather do that than live without my voice, my only art, my one means of earning a livelihood if you want to look at it that way," he declared bitterly.

He shrugged away from her tender hands.

"You can't watch me all the time, you know," he said pointedly.

Then his bitterness broke. "Oh, my God!" he muttered and sank down on his knees beside the table, his head buried in his arms, his shoulders wracked with great, tearing sobs.

Marjorie, standing there helplessly, looking down on the poor, broken wreck of the once really great artist, came slowly and deliberately to a decision.

No matter what a hideous thing it was to contemplate, no matter how it dealt the last fatal blow to a pride that was already being killed inch by inch, she must ask Reed Hollister for the money for Ivan's operation.

It would be asking alms, pure and simple. There was no other name for it. But better that than a soul in torment, or a life ruthlessly snuffed out for lack of hope.

When Ivan had spent his strength in his passionate outburst, she helped him to his feet, answering soothingly his shame-faced apologies for being such a weakling. She called Hutchins and together they put him to bed. She gave him a sedative and waited until its effects were evident in his quiet slumber.

Leaving a housemaid on guard outside his partly-opened door with instructions to summon Hutchins at the first suspicious movement, she went away to her own room and began to prepare mechanically for the street.

As she slipped into a tailored frock and drew a small hat with a veil over her fair hair, she was planning how she would about the hateful task she had set upon herself.

It would be best perhaps to seek Hollister's lawyer, since Hollister himself had left all the arrangements between himself and his wife-of-a-day to that gentleman's offices. But, on the other hand, it looked so cowardly to hide behind the lawyer that she looked, as though she hadn't the courage to ask such an enormous favor of the man personally. Certainly, she thought bitterly, if his original scheme of extending charity to her had been conceived by a desire to humiliate her, he would get his money's worth in this instance. The price of Ivan's operation, which she was going to ask for, would be a stiff price to pay for revenge, but Hollister could well afford it a thousandfold.

She put this thought away from her with a little grimace of distaste. She knew she was maligning Hollister in her thoughts. Whatever he might think of her for making the request, whatever he already thought of her for accepting his bounty for herself and her family, he would give no evidence of it. He would be kind and courteous and generous in his treatment of her, she was assured of that. Whatever fear he inspired in her, however, she resisted the dominance of strength and magnetism she could never accuse him of rudeness or cruelty.

With her determination to carry this through, cost what it might, held before her like a torch, she went down to the car that would take her into town.

From an Unexpected Quarter.

Marjorie was about to step into the car that would bear her into town, when another machine swung around a corner of the drive and halted at the portico.

Dr. Danby, Ivan's physician, stepped out, briskly professional, bearing his neat little satchel. "Ah, Mrs. Hollister," he swept off his hat, came up to her smiling. "I'm glad I met you before you got away. I have good news. Will it inconvenience you to give me a few minutes?"

"Not at all, I have plenty of time."

Marjorie bade Horton wait and led the way to the library. She was debating whether or not to tell the doctor of Ivan's attempt to take his own life, and decided that, since she was so soon to rescue him from his slough of despond by securing from Hollister the price of his operation, it was unnecessary to give away Ivan's secret.

"I wanted to talk this over with you, Mrs. Hollister, before breaking the news to our patient. I thought perhaps you could tell me how best to approach your brother-in-law, for," he shrugged, smiling, "it's rather a delicate situation."

The doctor had long left Leila out of his calculations. His keen professional eyes had sized up the situation. He recognized the disinterest of the wife, and turned to Marjorie for co-operation.

"You see, it's this way," the doctor, seated in a comfortable chair across the table from Marjorie, fitted his slender, surgically fingers together neatly. He looked at them, not at Marjorie. "Mr. Erskine's case is a most unusual one, one quite worthy of scientific research. To study his malady, complete his cure, would be a valuable addition to our medical knowledge. Now it happens," he fidgeted a bit under her absorbed gaze, "it happens that I was speaking of your brother-in-law's case to one of our most indefatigable patrons of science—oh, not by name, you understand," he added hastily, "a case is merely a number in such discussions—professional ethics, you know. Well, to return, this patron, who is a very wealthy man, by the way, wishes the operation to be performed at his expense in the interest of science. He wishes that understood. He will never hear of you; you will never hear of him; but your brother-in-law will be cured and some valuable information will be added to our research."

He stopped speaking and looked at her expectantly.

Marjorie was breathless.

"I don't know what in the least to say," she hesitated. "It sounds like a gift from heaven. But, it is the gift of Ivan and my sister to decide. You're quite sure," she asked slowly, "that this isn't charity, isn't personal?"

"Not in the least, my dear young lady," the physician answered suavely. "Put your mind quite at rest on that point. I have our patron's own personal assurance that he is interested in this case purely in the interest of science."

"I will go to the patient now. Do you think perhaps it would be better for you to put the matter to rest in case he—er—feels some hesitancy about accepting outside aid—or will my explanation be quite satisfactory?"

Marjorie smiled faintly. After Ivan's willingness to let her sacrifice the last vestige of her pride and self-respect by asking Reed Hollister for aid, there wasn't much danger of his being squeamish when succor came from this new and unexpected quarter.

After the doctor had gone up, she told Hutchins to send the car away, she wouldn't be going to town after all.

She went out into the garden, feeling an insane desire to shout her relief to the skies. She was released from her hateful errand. She didn't have to humiliate herself by going to Hollister, and yet Ivan would be saved! If the operation were successful and he regained his voice, he and Leila would be able to go on as before. Marjorie would be relieved of their dependence. Once more there would be only her mother and Dan to look out for . . . and she had long since resolved that they should not keep her chained to Reed Hollister's bounty.

She crossed the lawn to Cora Forester's and found that cheerful soul reading before a roaring fire. She broke the news of Ivan's splendid chances, and Mrs. Forester rejoined with her.

"And now that it seems as though you were nearly out of your darkest woods, what about Tom?" Mrs. Forester inquired.

Marjorie, sitting on a footstool with her knees drawn up and clasped by her slim arms, threw her a mischievous glance.

"You might casually mention when you write to him that Marjorie Hollister will soon be free," she suggested. "He wrote me such a snippy letter that I positively refuse to answer it."

"I'll do it!" promised Cora Forester.

Some "Last Calls" Of Final Preserving And Pickling Days

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

THE last pickle and preserve making of the season is done in cool comfort, compared to that of the midsummer, so we feel more ambitious toward trying new recipes. City market stalls are always well stocked and colorful with the products of the fall harvests.

Preserve Quinces.

Select 16 fairly large and well-shaped quinces and wipe them very carefully with a soft cloth. Pare, quarter and core thoroughly, removing the hard, seedy center, put the waste into a saucepan and the quince into the preserve kettle with just enough cold water to cover.

Boil gently until tender enough to pierce with a broom splint, then lift with a skimmer to a colander. Measure the liquid and add three-quarters of a pint of sugar to each pint of the liquid. Add a small spice bag and a thinly-sliced lemon, pits removed, and boil gently for seven minutes from the time it begins to boil; then remove the spice bag and lemon, put in the fruit, and cook until the edges of the pieces look glassy. Fill hot pint jars with the preserve—and seal.

WINIFRED BLACK

WRITES ABOUT

Unfunny "Fun"

WHAT fun they did have—with the practical joke.

The people who planned it. They had some friends who were fond of animals and the friends had a very beautiful apartment in the smart part of Paris.

The apartment was furnished as such apartments often are—with the very cream and beauty and richness of the art treasures of Paris.

So the people who played the practical joke thought it would be fun to send some animals to the exquisite apartment—and they did!

They sent a little marmoset, they sent two parrots, they sent a Persian cat and a silver greyhound and a bear cub—and they turned them all loose in different parts of the apartment. Oh, yes, there were some lizards, too, a pair of them, all green and gold—and what fun it was going to be to have the people who lived in the apartment come home and find it full of so many unexpected pets.

When They Came Home.

And when the people did come home one of the monkeys had torn one of the priceless gobelins fairly to shreds and the marmoset had upset a precious flask of Venetian glass and broken it to smithereens.

And the bear had taken a fancy to the rose-colored couch in the lady's dressing room, and when she came in there he lay on the couch with the room a swirling mass of feathers.

The bear liked the pillows and he tore them open for his amusement.

How the practical jokers did laugh when they heard about it! They fairly shrieked and clapped their hands and almost danced for joy.

But the people who lived in the apartment did not laugh at all and the woman of the family says she will never speak to the practical jokers again. The practical jokers are a good deal surprised and they are really quite indignant.

What's the use of having a friend if your friend can't take a joke? they say. The American colony in Paris is taking sides, and now we shall have a spirited discussion as to practical jokes and the sort of people who make them.

I never could find much to discuss in such a subject as that.

Not Only Silly, but Dangerous.

Of course, it is great fun to pull someone's chair out from under him or give him ink to drink when he thinks he is going to get coffee, or send him a telegram telling him that you are dead and then appear suddenly at the foot of his bed in the dead of the night—sidesplitting, isn't it? But I knew a man once who was made a helpless invalid for life by having a chair dragged out from under him, and I knew a woman who had the throat gripped on her when she was in a delicate state of health, and she died—just as the "ghost" began to laugh.

A bit dangerous, these jokes, aren't they? Sort of primitive and savage, when they aren't silly.

No, no, I'm afraid we have passed the day of such primitive amusement. Wouldn't it have been fun if the people in the Paris apartment had just borrowed a few of the jokers' ornaments and furnishings and let the bear tear up their cushions and all the rest of it?

There would have been something really funny in that, wouldn't there?

How to Appear Beautifully Rested and Refreshed

By LUCREZIA BORI, Famous Spanish Prima Donna

THE days of late summer and early fall are often marked by excessive heat. Despite the fact that we have had weeks of summer weather by this time, many women suffer keenly from the late summer heat, and their beauty suffers accordingly.

Now, a woman's most telling charm is undoubtedly her freshness and daintiness. A woman who is not fresh and dainty is a disappointment to all eyes.

No woman can look her best when her languid manner and weary appearance reveal only too clearly that she is suffering from the hot, sticky weather.

The woman who looks charming and cool and dainty, and whose manner shows plainly that she feels almost as well as she looks, is the woman who knows various clever ways to cope with the heat, so that it does not get the best of her.

Now I'm going to give you a few wise hints for warm days. Some of them are doubtless familiar to you, but you may discover one or two that you do not know and which you will find extremely helpful.

Of course, the matter of clothing must come in for its share of attention. Cool dresses of crepe or wash materials are invariably youthful and becoming, if they are kept absolutely fresh and spotless.

This last requirement is, of course, necessary to any woman's charm. And in planning the managing of your wardrobe you must see to it that you manage so you will be able to appear fresh and dainty at all times.

For instance, don't wear white collars and cuffs unless you will have time to change them often enough to have them appear always spotless. It is better to wear a dark dress devoid of collars and cuffs unless you will be able to keep white ones altogether fresh.

You must have frequent changes of fresh washable underthings, and, of course, the cooling bath for yourself is a great help.

And here I want to tell you about the bath taken for its cooling effects. Many women think that the absolutely cold bath is the most refreshing of all. The fact is, it may make you cooler while you are taking it and immediately after, but its cooling effects do not last.

Draw another basin of cold water and hold your face just below the surface of the water, leaving it there as long as you can hold your breath. Immerse your face several times in this way, and you will feel and appear fresher and more attractive.

Another excellent way to make your complexion appear fresher and younger is to apply a bit of ice to it, carefully wrapping the ice in a bit of gauze or cloth, and pressing it gently on the skin.

The Three-Piece Costume For Fall

THE early fall finds fashion still calling for simplicity. The boyish bobbed heads seem to demand simple clothing. One can hardly imagine a shingled head above a fluffy, frilly dress. This simplicity of mode is seen in the three-piece costumes, or ensemble costumes as they are sometimes called. This is the best popular costume for fall. It really is only a two-piece outfit, being composed of a dress and coat of similar if not the same material and color. The coat and dress must harmonize and are always decorated with the same kind of trimming.

The illustration on the right of beige in flared crepe. The garment and coat is in hand embroidery, in harmonizing colors that does not reach to the hem of the dress skirt. The all ensemble costumes. The two figures are two views of a more tailored costume. The coat and dress of the same fabric in this type of ensemble is in black kasha or some other dark fabric.

PHILOSOPHICAL PHRASES.

We spend our lives in a fact, a system of relating, and we are rather than a positive and independent existence, and he who would be happy himself and make others happy must carefully preserve these relations.

Life hours in bed present an invitation to character, and an omen of ultimate hopes of the person who indulges in this habit.

When things are in a state of confusion, there is no parable to collect.

Good common sense is a chain to the ground, and a native land of children.

He who is a native of himself hath said, This is my own, my native land.

And stir your circulation so your skin appears fresh and young. Try this when you are about to go to bed at night. Finish the treatment with a light rubbing of powder.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

IN LIGHTER VEIN.

THE average summer love affair is only two weeks long, including all the detours.

There is no greater tonic for a man's nerve and character than a helpless and indolent wife—and no greater sedative for his ambition than a successful and efficient one.

It isn't what a woman says that drives a man to desperation—or to another woman—but the way she keeps on repeating and repeating and repeating it.

Art is a hard taskmistress. Even an artistic lover seldom has time and energy left for anything much else in this life.

Up to 20, a girl is constantly trying to read her fate in the stars or the cards—but, after that, she knows that she can always read it instantly, by the first glance into a man's eyes.

Nowadays, when a man actually discovers that he has fallen in love, he considers the matter all settled. There is nothing more to do but run out and tell the girl the glad news, and decide on the favors for the ushers.

When a foreigner says "I love you," it may be merely his way of saying "It's a pleasant evening"; but when an American says, "I love you!" he MEANS it. If you don't believe it, just try to make one of them say it against his will!

Faith is the sublime and beautiful trust that a man has in his wife's corned beef hash.

Have baked peaches for dessert for a change. Cut firm peaches in half. Do not peel them. Fill center with syrup and bake, or bake the peaches whole. The pit will give a nice flavor.

Before poaching eggs rub bottom of pan with oil or butter so the eggs will not cling to the bottom in cooking.

Rub mildew stains with juice of raw tomatoes, sprinkle with salt and expose to hot sun. If necessary repeat process two or three times.

If jelly will not thicken do not pour it back into the kettle to re-heat—this wastes considerable jelly. Just set the filled tumblers into a pan of warm water and set in a moderate oven until it is of the right consistency.

If the oven gets too hot at the top fill a dripping pan, or any pan about an inch high, with cold water and place it on upper grate. To reduce heat at bottom of oven put a grate under the article that is to be baked. An asbestos mat under the baking pan will also regulate super-heat at bottom of oven.

Cut one ounce fat salt pork in dice, add one onion diced, one-half carrot diced and saute seven minutes. Add three cupfuls water, one cupful celery cut in pieces, hard part of a dozen clams, chopped, and cook one-half hour. Add two and one-half cupfuls beef stock, one cupful tomato, two cupfuls potatoes diced and steamed and soft part of clams. Simmer 15 minutes and serve hot.

CROWN ROAST OF LAMB.
This roast consists of two strips of chops fastened together at the sides. Have your butcher put it together and trim the bones as for French chops. To cook, dust the meat with salt and pepper and place in a hot oven for 20 minutes, covering the tips of the chops with slices of bacon, to prevent them from charring, then reduce the oven heat to medium, add three cupfuls hot water to the pan and continue to roast, allowing 15 minutes to the pound and basting frequently. Serve with cooked peas in the hollow center.

Peter Rabbit's Funny Question

Say what you will, to me 'tis plain That everyone is sometimes vain.

PETER RABBIT and Grandfather Frog sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool talking. Grandfather Frog was at the edge of the water, while Peter was higher up on the bank. Peter had flattered Grandfather Frog by telling him that he was the biggest and handsomest Frog in all the Great World. Grandfather Frog knew that he was being flattered, but despite this his vanity was tickled. He felt very friendly toward Peter.

As they talked Grandfather Frog kept swallowing. Peter could see his throat move every time he swallowed. It was as if he had not yet finished his breakfast and was swallowing food he had had in his mouth. But Grandfather Frog didn't talk as if he had his mouth full of food. After he had swallowed times enough to have disposed of several mouthfuls, Peter began to get puzzled. He was wondering if it would be impolite to ask Grandfather Frog what he was swallowing when there came a sudden interruption.

It was a very sudden interruption. Grandfather Frog had just started to say something when without any warning at all he made a beautiful long, clean dive into the Smiling Pool, and Peter caught just a glimpse of him disappearing in the mud at the bottom. "Well, I never!" exclaimed Peter, staring after Grandfather Frog with such a funny look of puzzled surprise on his face.

"Some day I'll get him," said a voice in a tone of disappointment. "Some day I'll get that fellow."

Peter turned to see Longlegs the Great Blue Heron standing at the edge of the water and gazing down into the Smiling Pool with a look of disappointment. He had stolen up along the edge of the waste time waiting in the hope that Grandfather Frog would return. He kept on along the shore of the Smiling Pool and finally disappeared among the rushes at the upper end. Peter remained sitting on the bank. After what seemed to him a long time he saw just the two big, goggle eyes of Grandfather Frog appear above the surface of the water. Peter was sure they winked at him. Sure that Longlegs was no longer there Grandfather Frog swam ashore. "Where did he go, Peter?" said he.

Peter told him. "Then I'm safe," declared Grandfather Frog. "What are you staring so hard at me for, Peter?"

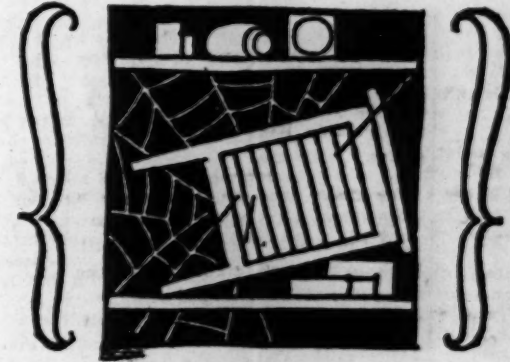

Peter hesitated. "I—I have been wondering what you are swallowing," he confessed. "Are you still swallowing your breakfast, Grandfather Frog?"

No rubbing when you wash with La France—it blues as it cleans

No MATTER what soap or washing method you now employ, you can wash twice as fast and with half the work, if you use La France. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls with the soap, add to the wash-water, and see how quickly and beautifully the clothes get clean.

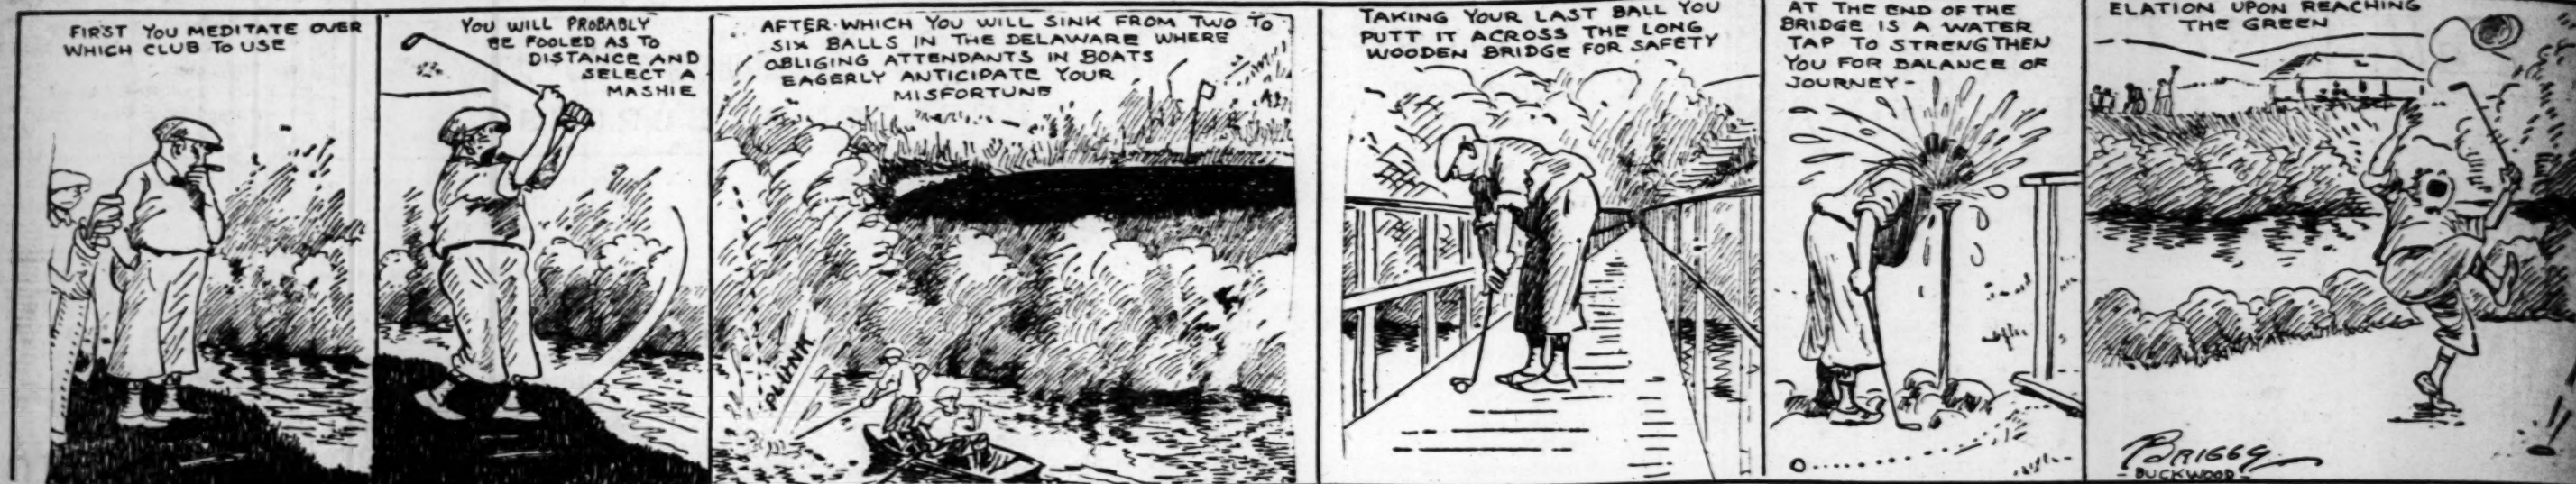

La France is the greatest little aid to wash-day that ever was invented. It's a dirt loosener that reaches right down into the very pores of a fabric and releases every sticky, greasy particle of soil so it can be easily rinsed away. And La France blues as it cleans.

You can use it with any soap you like—bar, powder or flakes—in tubs or washing machine. Best of all, it's so perfectly safe. Won't injure the most delicate fabric. Order La France from your grocer to-day. Only 10 cents a package, or 3 1/2 cents per wash-day.

For ironing, use Satina. Added to the hot starch, it gives a smooth, glossy finish. Keeps the iron from sticking. Delightfully perfumed, and fragrances the clothes. La France Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia.

LIFE IN THE GOLDEN WEST.

AS Montague Glass has pointed out, it is regarded as exceedingly bad form on the part of an earthquake should it be so ill-advised as to occur in the vicinity of any real estate development along the Pacific Coast. Nevertheless, and either through ignorance or deliberate carelessness, earthquakes do, from time to time, occur. As a general proposition, they do no great damage, but they are annoying, and often newcomers to California get a trifle nervous over these tremors. As a result it is sometimes difficult to secure competent domestic help. In some towns almost any general houseworker is given a hearty welcome in almost any home and such shortcomings as she may manifest are generally condoned.

Glass tells of a young matron of his acquaintance who lived in one of these towns. She hadn't been living there very long. She had heard about earthquakes but she had never experienced one. Still, she had other troubles. Her one servant meant well, no doubt, but had a destructive way about her.

One afternoon the lady was taking a nap. Suddenly she awakened. The house was filled with clamor. Downstairs she could hear chinaware smashing and cooking utensils banging about with a loud metallic clanging; then, as the kitchen ceiling fell, there was a tremendous thud.

But the lady was not in the least frightened. She did not think of earthquakes. She merely associated the disturbance with the day's routine. She arose, sighed deeply, went to the head of the back stairs and in a resigned and patient tone called out: "Well, Lizzie, what are you doing now?"

BOTH BEGAN WITH AN O.

THE poor traffic cop was out of temper. All day at the bridge entrance he had contended with motorists, truck drivers and teamsters who, through confusion or plain stupidity, disregarded his signals.

Presently along came a stubborn person on top of a moving-wagon who got everything snarled up. This individual appeared to know nothing about the rules of the road. He had to be informed on fundamentals and he also had the points of the compass designated for him with some sarcasm. On top of all this he started forward on one whistle instead of two.

The cop backed him and as he unbuttoned his coat to produce his pencil and notebook, asked: "What's your name?"

"It's on the side of me van. I own this outfit. You kin read it there."

The policeman moved alongside to view some boards plastered with mud and said: "It's obliterated."

"Yer a liar," answered the offender belligerently. "It's O'Brien."
